LAST HONORS PAID LATE KING IN THE GREATEST FUNERAL IN HISTORY

BRITAIN WEEPS AND BURIES HIM

International Homage Paid Dead Monarch now Recognized as Greatest of Modern Rulers

COL. ROOSEVELT TAKES PART

As Special Envoy of the United States He Joins the Sad Procession of the Mourners

FEATURES OF KING EDWARD'S FUNERAL

Nine ruling monarchs and host of lesser royalty ride horseback in procession.

Number of spectators along line of march and side streets, estimated at 2,500,000.

Thirty-five thousand soldiers and thousands of police guard route of cortege.

Procession required two hours and seven minutes to cover three miles from Westminster Hall to Paddington station.

King's favorite charger, his pet terrier, footman and valet in the procession.

Every railway train and street stop for a few minutes when procession starts.

Burial at St. Georges chapel at Windsor.

Five thousand floral pieces banked in chapel.

Col. Roosevelt rides in carriage with Foreign Minister Pichon of France and Sadad Khan of Persia, the colonel and Pichon wearing evening dress, black studs and mourning bands.

King George entertains visiting rulers at luncheon following funeral.

LONDON, May 20.—The body of Edward VII, late king of England and foremost among the rulers of the earth, was laid to rest today in St. Georges' Chapel, Windsor, where seven other British kings are buried.

It was the most imposing funeral the world has ever seen and, literally speaking, the world did see, for nine ruling monarchs, the official representatives of other great powers and a host of lesser royalty, including the heirs apparent to many of the world's thrones, took part in the obsequies.

The world wide note of grief that held the city dumb as the solemn cortege moved through the streets was more eloquent than words that Edward dead was even greater than Edward reigning. The nation today finds solace in the universal tribute paid to the dead "peace maker."

The procession left Westminster Hall at 9:50 and from that moment until the royal coffin was deposited in St. Georges chapel, the obsequies were never lacking in imposing, dramatic and spectacular features.

The weather was warm and bright though there were prophecies of thunderstorms, following the rains of last night.

Horse Creates Excitement

A moment of excitement occurred at the outset of the procession when the Duke of Connaught, brother of the dead king, who rode with Emperor William of Germany immediately behind King George, was nearly thrown from his horse. The spirited animal became frightened and plunged and reared violently. Soldiers grabbed the bridle of the maddened animal and finally succeeded in quieting him.

Pets His Pets

Among the many touching incidents that marked the funeral none affected the crowd more than the act of Alexandra, the queen mother, who, before entering her carriage in the procession, stopped and stroked the mane of the late king's favorite charger and patted the head of Caesar, a fox terrier of which Edward was very fond. The terrier was brought to the palace today by

ROOSEVELT WITH KINGS

LONDON, May 20.—Though Col. Roosevelt was not in the front rank in today's funeral parade, he sat at the chief table at the luncheon given by King George in Windsor Castle immediately after the funeral exercises. He was seated with King George and the Kaiser.

MEMORIALS AND TRIBUTES

PARIS, May 20.—Memorial services for King Edward were held today in the Anglican church and were participated in by the French and foreign diplomatic corps, President Fallieres and Andrew Carnegie.

The president came from Rambouillet especially for the service.

* * * *

NEW YORK, May 20.—Out of respect to the memory of King Edward many of the stock exchanges throughout the world were closed today. The New York stock exchange did not open until noon.

* * * *

WASHINGTON, May 20.—President Taft, members of the cabinet and other high officials of the government, today attended the memorial services for the late King Edward VII in St. Johns Episcopal church which was crowded with a distinguished congregation including the British ambassador, James Bryce, his staff, and other members of the diplomatic corps.

* * * *

NEW YORK, May 20.—Memorial services in honor of the late King Edward were held here today in three Episcopal churches. The main services, in Old Trinity church, at the head of Wall street, was under the direction of the Associated British Society, with Bishop Courtney, Dr. Manning and Rev. Judge officiating.

HONEYWELL NEAR TO CITY STEEPLES

Kenosha People Talk to Aeronaut and Life Boats Seek to Find Him Fallen Into Lake

MILWAUKEE, May 20.—A dispatch to the Milwaukee Sentinel from Kenosha states that early this morning a balloon containing two men passed over that city from the southwest and was blown out over Lake Michigan. As the balloon was flying less than 500 feet from the water the life saving crew put out in their launch to be ready if it dropped, but after following ten or twelve miles, lost sight of it. A search of the lake is being made.

The balloon is the Centennial, in which Captain H. E. Honeywell left St. Louis Thursday evening. Captain Honeywell dropped a message saying that all was well and that he was going to cross the lake.

Talk to Aeronauts.

The balloon was flying so low that persons in the street at Kenosha talked to the aeronauts as they sailed by. Captain Honeywell shouted, "Good morning," and added: "We are bound for New England and are trying for the Lahm cup for long distance flights. Conditions very favorable."

The messages dropped at Kenosha read:

"We are the balloon Centennial. —H. E. Honeywell."

"Are sailing over Kenosha going in direction northeast. Wind twenty miles an hour. All well. (Signed.) Assman. H. E. Honeywell"

Honeywell believes that by crossing Lake Michigan to Canada he can strike an eastern current that will carry him far enough to win the cup. The balloon left St. Louis last night. Honeywell is a seasoned pilot and has made many attempts to win the Lahm cup.

The fact that Honeywell was sailing very low when seen over the lake is of no significance and does not indicate that he is in any trouble, as it was Honeywell's intention to stay as close to the ground as possible during the night to keep the gas cool and prevent gas leakage. When the sun comes out in the morning the gas then expands and the balloonist can take a higher level without any additional energy or loss of ballast.

COSTA RICA SHAKES TIDAL WAVE COMES

PORT LIMON, May 20.—Another earthquake shock struck Costa Rica today. Reports from San Jose and the interior indicate there was great property damage. A tidal wave here swept the streets near the fruit docks. It is believed the greatest damage was inflicted east of here in the Antilles.

CROWNED HEADS OF EUROPE PAY HOMAGE TO LATE KING EDWARD VII

LONDON.—Never in this generation have so many members of royalty gathered as are now present to pay their homage to the late King during the funeral service today. Practically every continental ruler is here in person, and every nation on the globe of importance is officially represented.

THE COMET PUTS ANOTHER ACROSS

For a Second Time it Eludes the Astronomers and Bobs Up in the East All Out of Its Course

If the astronomers' observations are correct, Halley's comet can be seen in La Crosse tonight in the west, a little south of the point of sunset, at about twelve minutes past nine.

NEW YORK, May 20.—A comet's tail is as elusive as the Dutchman's flea, for the tail, due in the western sky shortly after sunset last evening, was, according to all comet gazers, seen in the eastern sky at 3 o'clock this morning, doing all kinds early morning hours.

The astronomers, who first told us in reassuring tones that we had successfully passed through the comet's tail and later assured us just as positively that we had not passed through the comet's tail, later notified us that we would not pass through the comet's tail at all, have not yet worked in their latest alibi. But to the ordinary sky gazer there is dawning realization that astronomers do not know as much about comet's tails as they would have us believe.

Those who looked in the western sky just after sunset last night for the appearance of Mr. Helley's kidding comet, found it not.

Others who took up the "dog watch" report that they saw it moored in the same old spot in the eastern sky, at the same old hour—3 a. m., a ribbon of light running from north to south for 110 degrees, almost parallel with the horizon.

A New Puzzle

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 20.—For a second time last night Halley's comet failed to appear as scheduled in the west shortly after sunset, and its tail duplicated the trick of appearing in the eastern sky during the eraly mouring hours.

It appears, however, to be the concensus of opinion of astronomers that the earth passed through the tail of the comet some time last night and it is expected that it will appear in the west this evening. The most exciting observation noted yesterday was a spectrum extending across the sun, discovered by Prof. E. B. Frost, of Yerkes Observatory, Williams Bay, Wis. The astronomers are puzzled, as nothing of the sort has ever been witnessed before.

Prof. E. C. Pickering of Harvard Observatory, is of the opinion that this means that the comet's head has already passed the earth, and that the spectrum was the comet's tail appearing between the sun and the earth.

KILLING JUSTIFIED

CARMI, Ill., May 20.—George Wheeler was acquitted today of the murder of Herman Parker, his employer. Parker had misused and beaten Wheeler when he had asked for his wages, whereupon Wheeler is said to have killed Parker.

THE BALLINGER PROBE IS ENDED

Taking of Evidence Is Concluded Today and Arguments will Be Made Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 20.—10:20 a. m.—This morning Attorney Vertrees unexpectedly announced that the "defense" in the Ballinger investigation would let its case rest with the testimony now in, and the "prosecution" was closed at 12:10 o'clock this afternoon. The testimony covers 4,760 pages. Arguments, brief from counsel and several letters have been called for and are yet to be added to the record.

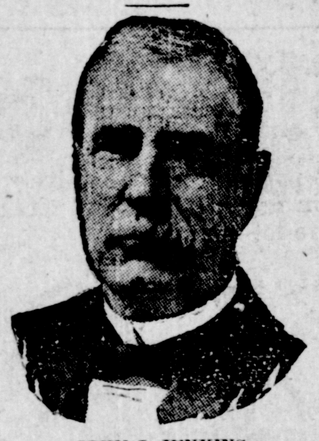

At the opening of today's session Attorney Vertrees submitted a list of papers which he wished added to the record. Those included the agreements between Louis R. Glavis and W. W. Barr, a land speculator of Seattle, Washn., who testified for the "prosecution.". The agreement shows, according to Vertrees that Glavis had a pecuniary interest in securing timber lands from the government.

Vertrees Closes

Vertrees then announced to the committee that he had completed his case. This caused considerable surprise, both to the committee and the spectators. It was known that the Ballinger attorney had expected to call at least four more witnesses. Vertrees voiced an anticipatory protest against counsel for the "prose-

SENATE CONFIRMS JENKINS NOMINATION

OUR TARS MAY BE FORCED TO FIGHT

Small Force Defending the Bluefields Consulate May Have to Engage the Entire Madriz Army

BLUEFIELDS, May 20.—Marines with machine guns from the U. S. gunboat Paducah today threw up a line of defense about the American consulate here and will remain on duty until the impending crisis of the Nicaraguan war is passed. The consulate commands the main street of Bluefield. The Madriz and Estrada armies are facing each other within three miles of the city. Outpost fighting was started this morning and the deciding conflict will undoubtedly soon be in progress.

Two divisions of the Estrada forces, slow in taking up their last lines of defense late yesterday, were attacked by a Madriz division. The skirmish lasted more than hour before the Estrada forces could retreat successfully and the losses will probably reach 100 men, about the same number being killed on each side.

The American citizens have taken refuge near the American consulate and the bluejackets have been stationed about the public square. Americans fear the marines will not be able to awe the Madriz forces into remaining out of the city. The Madriz faction claims that Americans really started the revolution and say they will sack the city. In this event the marines would be forced to fight a force greatly outnumbering them.

The Madriz gunboat Venus, which was driven from the Bluefields harbor yesterday by the Paducah, landed 300 soldiers below the city last night, strengthening the Madriz army.

HE SHOWS THEY BID TO GET GRAFT MONEY

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 20.—John K. Knox of the Derby Desk Co., testified before the Sangamon county grand jury today, in relation to the letting of the contract for the state house furniture to the highest bidder. Knox's testimony was the most tangible yet secured in the graft hunt and will be followed by a number of subpoenaes. He produced certain letters and telegrams which contain, it is said, veiled intimations that money would secure the contract for his firm. Knox told the jury that the goods which were bought at the high prices were of cheap construction and much inferior to the samples he displayed and then proceeded to tell why.

GREAT ATHLETIC EVENT TOMORROW

Biggest Field and Track Meet Ever Held in This Section to Begin Early

BIG ATTENDANCE HOPED FOR

Eighty-five of the Best High School Athletes in State of Wisconsin will Participate

What — Annual interstate track and field meet.

Where—At the Interstate Fair grounds.

When—1:45 p. m. Saturday.

Who—Eighty-five of the best athletes in the state and Minnesota, representing 12 cities.

Price—Thirty-five cents for advance reserved seats.

Where to get seats—Forschlers', Fay Lewis, Dittman's Hoeschler's, Hebberd's and the Y. M. C. A.

Records—Several championship records are held by entrants and will likely be broken.

What Madison gets for a similar meet—50 cents to $2.00.

The athletes' hope—That everyone will do justice to the magnitude of the event by attending.

Tomorrow afternoon the greatest track and field meet ever held in this section of the state will be pulled off at the fair grounds with 85 athletes entered, representing twelve progressive Wisconsin and Minnesota cities. It will be an event well worth the patronage of anyone who is interested in seeing a development of muscle, skill and brains in the younger generation and that sensational records will be made by the four score of trim young athletes is assured. There will be delegations from other cities here and the high school boys who have worked faithfully for weeks preparing for the event expect La Crosse people to turn out for the big event.

There are 30,000 people in the city of La Crosse who have never seen a big track and field meet. The largest crowd that has ever come to an interstate meet in this city numbers about six hundred. Ninety-five per cent of the people of the city, then, have no idea what a track meet looks like.

The Sight You See

To such can only be said: A crowd of clear-skinned, clean-limbed young athletes, the pick of the generation which is going to be heard from within a few years, all showing, in their clean cut muscles, healthy color and resolute faces, signs of the faithful, conscientious training of the past eight weeks.

There comes a call for the first event; ten or a dozen young fellows are spread out across the track; they crouch, ready for a spring; there is the crack of a pistol and they are off, straining every nerve to reach the coveted bit of yarn stretched across the track to mark the limit of the course; for a time they run even, side by side; then one fellow suddenly shoots forward, breaks away from the crowd and crosses the

TICKETS 35 CENTS

Owing to the great expense to be shouldered by the La Crosse high school it has been decided to charge thirty-five cents admission to the interstate track meet to be held at the fair grounds instead of twenty-five cents as originally planned.

Expenses for railway fare and meals of contestants, advertising and other expenditures have brought the local expense to an enormous figure, making the raise of the admission price imperative.

MINERS' STRIKE NOW SEEMS INEVITABLE

DEFEATS SCHEME TO BOOST BONDS

"Standard Railroad or Corporation Bonds" as Security for Contractors Are Stricken Out

CLAPP RAISES OBJECTION

Minnesota Insurgent Opposes Fortification of Pearl Harbor as Naval Base on the Pacific

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 20.—The naval appropriation bill was taken up for consideration in the senate today. It carries $136,935,000, a decrease from last year's bill of more than $6,000,000.

Senator La Follette (R., Wis.) opposed the amendment permitting contractors to deposit "standard railroad or corporation bonds" in lieu of the usual indemnity. He would always resist, he said, efforts to have such securities recognized by the government until the actual value of the property on which they are based has been accurately ascertained.

An amendment striking out the objectional words was accepted, leaving only government, state and county and municipal bonds available for deposit.

The provisions for six additional submarines and two colliers and the limitation allowing but one battleship to be constructed by the same contractor, were accepted.

The fortification of Pearl Harbor was criticised by Senator Clapp (R., Minn.) who could not see what possible benefit to the Pacific coast such works would be on account of the remote distance.

ROOT TO BEG THE AID OF ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK, May 20.—Leaders of the republican state and county organizations today conferred with United States Senator Root regarding political conditions.

The senator sails for Europe tomorrow and will bear appeals from the political chiefs to Col. Roosevelt asking the former president to return to this country prepared to take over the leadership of his party in the state and rule things with an iron hand.

Incidentally when the junior senator meets the former president in whose cabinet he was, he will present to him for the first time the Taft side of the administration in its fight against the insurgents in congress and former Chief Forester Pinchot, former Secretary of the Interior Garfield and other close friends of Roosevelt.

STAND BY OUR BOYS

The Tribune takes pleasure in introducing to that portion of the La Crosse public who do not know him, Mr. John Young, the Atlas upon whose shoulders rests the world of responsibility in relation to the interstate high school field meet which will be held in this city Saturday.

We do not know how old Mr. Young is. We know that he is called "Spider" with a mixture of cordiality and respect by his associates in the La Crosse high school from which, barring a collision with Halley's comet, he will graduate within the year. We know he is a hard headed young fellow behind whose judicious bearing is a world of enthusiasm and a definite purpose to make this rather stupendous enterprise "stand up," and we accept him as the type of the young men who are associated with him in this progressive enterprise. As publicity is essential to his success, we have been thrown into frequent contact with him and we are free to confess that he has enlisted our sympathy in his undertaking.

Before discussing with the citizens of La Crosse certain reasons why we believe every man who values the vigorous mind and body for the development of which young America is as much indebted to track and field as to school and library should co-operate with our high school boys in their fine undertaking, we desire to recite a few simple facts about this field meet.

The participants in the interstate meet number 85 and represent a dozen of the best high schools in western Wisconsin, northern Iowa and eastern Minnesota.

A number of them have deemed it of sufficient importance to engage special cars to bring their contestants to La Crosse.

Among the contestants are such celebrated high school athletes as Mattie, Dorais, Kuranz, Remondino, Tormey, Walters and Hunt, all of whom hold records for the state of Wisconsin.

Indicative of the importance of this field meet in the opinion of the big journals of the country is the fact that the Chicago Tribune, Chicago Record-Herald, Minneapolis Tribune and Milwaukee Sentinel have arranged at considerable expense to send special correspondents to cover the event.

Milwaukee and Madison have charged $2.00 per ticket when those cities had the honor of entertaining this meet, but the La Crosse management has made it possible for citizens of La Crosse to witness the event for 25c, and has facilitated buying by placing them on advance sale at Forschlers', Fay Lewis', Dittman's, Hoeschler's, Hebberd's and the Y. M. C. A.

Here comes the rub: In putting on this meet our high school boys must encounter an expense aggregating in the neighborhood of $500. So far from expecting to make a cent, their fondest hope is that the revenues may meet the cost, and thus far the advance sale of tickets gives no sign that that end will be accomplished. Unless the public wakes up and shows an interest in its young men the chance is strong that they will wind up two or three hundred dollars in the hole, and will have to make up the deficit in some manner.

The Tribune wants every man with red blood and every woman who admires manly men to join in the effort to make this thing a success. It is in a first-class cause. The thing that makes this fighting nation, that gives us men and women who strive and triumph and achieve in every walk of life, is the training afforded the younger generations. The boy who hurls himself into the dangers of the football scrimmage will not hesitate at the other perils and hardships of life. The youth who has the persistence to stick to the track until relief comes with his "second wind," is he who later refuses to lay down life's burden until the goal is reached. This conflict, this contest in which boys make good begets men and citizens who make good through the rest of life.

There has not come from young Mr. Young or any of his sturdy associates a word of complaint or a sign of weakening confidence. We believe they are exerting themselves to the utmost to make their field meet a success, and it would be a shame to let public apathy become responsible for their failure. This is our high school, these are our boys and their fight is our fight. Let us get into the game. Buy a ticket. Buy all the tickets you can afford. And having bought a ticket do something else which you should do to encourage them. Use the ticket. Be present at the field meet.

A VICIOUS FELLOW

That "shooting would be too gentlemanly a fate" for certain republican insurgents, and that "hanging should be their fate," as they are "Judases" to the republican party, is the opinion expressed by "Uncle Joe" Cannon at the annual banquet of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Then, reading them out of the party, Cannon in the next sentence specifically mentions La Follette, Bristow and Dolliver. In other words, he says La Follette, Bristow and Dolliver ought to be shot.

Is not this edifying? La Follette, Bristow, Dolliver and their insurgent associates have been called "incendiary;" they have been abused for "inflammatory utterances." Not one of them has even, in a public speech, been guilty of coarseness or impropriety. They are scholarly gentlemen who do not agree that John D. Rockefeller, J. Pierpont Morgan and the Guggenheims are entitled to a quitclaim of the earth. Just for that they are "anarchists." And just for that, says Cannon, they ought to be hung.

When will someone wash out the mouth of this profane old creature and send him away out of sight and hearing of an indulgent public grown weary of his rant and filth and subservience to the masters of monopoly!

There was a great roar about "pernicious activity of federal senators" when Cummins told the people of Iowa to defeat certain reactionary congressmen there. There was an outcry about federal interference in the state and the "attempt of the senate to control the house." This outcry, of course, was in the standpat papers. Now comes President Taft and writes a letter sent into Iowa to urge the election of a reactionary congressman, in speaking for whom he inferentially speaks for all the reactionary congressmen. This act of the president, strange to say, elicited no protest from the standpat papers. Yet how much more grave is this endeavor of the executive branch of the government to name and rule the legislative branch, thus evading the constitutional intent that they shall be separate branches with independent functions? This thing Taft has done is a blow at the heart of republican government. That was in Iowa, but look out for the same in Wisconsin!

Progressives of the 31st senatorial district can find little ground for complaint in Howard Teasdale's platform announcing his candidacy for the state senate. However, the right kind of a candidate does no good unless he can be elected, and progressives in the Thirty-First must get busy getting together. With Teasdale, a positive progressive, and Nailor, a near-enough-progressive to have the confidence of many of the insurgents both in the field a standpat senator is likely to be sent to the legislature and a vote against La Follette will be cinched. The situation is a bad one, and requires united effort.

The Outcasts were due to lose one, so don't complain. We scattered our hits and bunched our errors. That is likely to happen to any team, and five out of six, with one cancelled victory thrown in for good measure, looks pretty good to "muh!"

Help our boys out. Go to the field meet. Back them up with your encouragement and patronage.

MA-HAT-MA IN SPIRITUALISM

At the regular performance this evening at the Majestic theater, Ma-Hat-Ma, the woman of mystery, will deviate from her regular performance of answering question and will entertain the patrons of the theater with her spiritualistic cabinet work. In this style of mystery, Ma-Hat-Ma has also succeeded in baffling the leading scientists and psychists throughout the continent of Europe and America. This will prove to be a rare opportunity for the people of the city who are interested. Many will undoubtedly acquaint themselves through Ma-Hat-Ma with the inner workings of this spiritualistic phenomena which has caused such a sensation in this country. Of course people say it is all humbug and trickery but Ma-Hat-Ma has proven that she is possessed of these marvelous powers. The most skeptical after seeing her manifestations are convinced that there is something about the work that is supernatural. Newspapers and periodicals have written pages after pages about Ma-Hat-Ma but have always come to the same conclusion that they know nothing more about the matter after seeing her than they do before and they end with "it's all a mystery" beyond human comprehension. Scientists have sat and meditated and then searched through records of all sorts for a possible explanation but they have had to admit that they were baffled. She is without a doubt one of the most wonderful women that has ever appeared before the public in any way and is proving to be one of the biggest attractions that the local theater has ever booked. The prices for the performances will remain the same notwithstanding the added expense of the act.

"In The Darkness Of The Night"

By Claire Marion.

In the middle of the night I suddenly woke up. Darkness was around me everywhere, and I could not collect my thoughts. Only very slowly consciousness came back. I tried to find out where I was, but my eyes did not distinguish anything in the darkness. A rumbling noise and a trembling movement of my seat, for I was sitting, told me that I was on board a train.

How I had come there, and where I was going, why I had started on this trip, where I had been before and how I had spent my past life were all mysteries to me. I must have slept long and deeply. Why was it so dark around me? They had forgotten to turn on the light in the compartment, and I was about to get up when I was held back by something like a rock. I was terrified to find out that it was my great trunk which was tied around my neck with a heavy chain.

I drew a deep sigh and was about to make another attempt when I heard a noise next to me. I put out my hand and touched another hand, a soft human hand which took hold of mine. Something seemed to draw me from far away, but I could not make out what it was. It seemed to be something that had happened long, long ago in connection with a hand, and a handshake, but that was all I could make out.

I was thoroughly aroused now and I heard deep breathing and snoring in other parts of the compartment. We were not alone, other people were traveling with us. I wanted to speak but found it impossible to say a single word. Nobody spoke, nobody moved. A common feeling of terror seemed to have petrified us all, the hand which I was still holding in mine trembled, and in the soft pressure there was a story of fear and a silent cry for assistance.

Where had I ever experienced anything similar to this, and when did it happen. The hand was soft and hot, and the sighing which seemed to come from a woman quite close to me reminded me of a tune I had heard once, and could not find again.

A groan escaped me, and I felt terribly unhappy not to be able to give the least little comfort to the being at my side who was evidently suffering as I did. And all the breathing seemed to come from people who were in the same trouble as I.

How long we rode in this manner I do not know. It seemed to me an eternity. Suddenly the train stopped, and a faint ray of light fell through the window, too faint however to distinguish anything, a voice which appeared to me cruel and hard sang out in the darkness: "Passengers out! All baggage must be examined."

We then went from the train to a large poorly illuminated hall. It was light enough for me to see that all of my traveling companions carried their baggage in chains around their neck like I did myself.

Invisible hands opened my trunk, invisible eyes looked into it. I knew it and I was seized with a feeling of terror. I felt that I had terrible things in the trunk, things which I ought not to have carried along with me, and which I had concealed from everybody until now. Things which were now to be laid open and bare to everyone.

I was ashamed of myself, and I felt hot tears running down my cheek when a voice close to me said: "You carry too much forbidden goods. You cannot enter. The entrance is too narrow and even if you could get through the door, who would help you carry your burdens? In this place everyone has enough to do with his own affairs."

Full of despair I collapsed on the ground, and suddenly I understood where I was going, and that I had long been dead.

Then I heard next to me a soft whisper: "Half of it is mine, yes more than half of it. I will help you carry it."

Two burning hot tears fell on my hand, and a ray of light illuminated for a moment the pale face of the woman at my side.

Recognizing her, I cried out in hatred, in pain, in fury, and I tore my hand loose from hers and tried to break the chain which bound us together. Rather carry everything alone, rather go to damnation alone than be together with her in paradise. For I had loved this woman more than any other, and had learned to despise her enough not to wish to see her in time or eternity. But I could not break the chain which tied me to her, and I saw that there was no escape from damnation.

And now I sat once more next to her in the train and we went further on into the eternity, we two people who have not wanted to have anything in common, and I shuddered at her continuous sighing. Incessantly hot tears fell on my hands, and the burden on my breast seemed to grow heavier and heavier. All the pains and sorrows and bitter enemies seemed to grow alive and tortured me until I groaned as she, and suffered the same torture. Fool that I was to have believed that I should get rid of her when I told her to leave me forever. How much easier had I felt when she left me never to return. Oh, if I had only been able to say that we were to be parted only for a short time!

But why was she whom I had lovee, and hated, whom I had sought and thrown away, the only one to follow me? Why had all my pleasant memories left me? All of them and vanished, and I was left only with memories of my sins, and the woman I despised.

"Are you still angry with me?" I heard her thoughts whisper, and I was about to answer: "I shall never forgive you," but she continued: "Didn't I suffer enough when you turned away from me? Or do you believe that the person who suffers in silence feels less pain than one who tells everyone of his sorrows? I have loved you so dearly and I have suffered so much, but I could never tell you before because my heart was too proud and stubborn."

And now my eyes gifted with a strange power were able to look into her heart. It looked strange in there among roaring flames, delicate flowers were growing and withered away. Once that heart bloomed for me. And in this poor desert which must at one time have been rich and full of charm. I saw strange beings move. They looked like birds, but their wings were broken and they could not escape from the poisonous odors which were trying to catch them.

I saw that I was the one whose duty it should have been to take care of these flowers which were her beautiful thoughts, but instead of that I had lit the fire, and I had turned the serpent's lose in this paradise. I had wanted to see if the birds which defend themselves, and wanted to watch the struggle in the too tender heart. I had thought that the good must be strong enough to overcome the evil, and I had not remembered that birds whose wings are broken can no longer fly but are at the mercy of the eyes of the serpent.

Because I had disliked to look any longer at this struggle which I had started myself I had despised her, and tried to forget her. Then I thought I was right, but today I discovered for the first time how cruel I had been.

I felt the trembling of the tortured heart, and heard the cries of the birds which could not escape, and once more I felt the sad expression in her eyes as she looked at me when I told her to leave me forever. I felt the trembling hand in mine, the hand of a helpless child, and I understood that I was more to blame than she, and I cried together with her.

Then the train stopped, and all of a sudden it was bright sunlight. The sun was high in the sky, larger and more brilliant than I had ever seen it. And when I looked around I saw her whom I had once loved standing before me unchained and with open arms. She seemed to me more beautiful than ever, and her eyes were beaming as she cried: "Now I am free, free through you, my beloved. See the heavy chains have dropped from us. The tears you let fall into my heart extinguished the fire, and ended my tortures. The sun of your love has melted away the sad memories. You have given me Lethe my beloved. Come to me now, and let us together walk through the golden gate."

Then I discovered that I stood there free and unchained as she did, and with a cry of joy I rushed into her arms.

THE COUPON BALLOT

NOTE—Articles under this heading are for the information of the voter, who should follow them to familiarize himself with the new ballot which he will have to use this fall.

THE COUPON BALLOT
As Seen by Old Bill Oftenheard And His Son Bob

"You seem to think," said Old Bill Oftenheard to his son Bob, "that the Coupon Ballot is a goin' to be such a good thing for the country. That it's going to do away with all kinds of monkey business in fixin' up election returns, and that the voters are going to have so much confidence in it, on account of that sealed up stub business which the court can recount the ballots from, that there wont be any such thing as ever getting it out'er use once the public get used to it."

"Of course I'll admit," continued Old Bill, "that it's got some good features about it if they was necessary but I dunno as they are necessary. I been talkin' to some of the old fellers around town about it and they seem to think that it takes a Philadelphia lawyer to vote it. Of course, Bob, you and I can vote it all right. No doubt about that. But when it comes to these common ordinary folks, I'm in doubt some about it. You know Bob I came from a bright family of way up folks in the East, and you wouldn't been half as smart as you are if you bandn't been who you are."

"Dad," said Bob, somewhat pityfully, "I don't see what makes you think that other folks ain't as smart as we are. I had some of that idea in me until I got it hazed out of me in college. There's no use in talking, what we can learn in five minutes the rest will learn also. It's too dead easy to bother any one a minute. Eimply take what you want away from the rest. The horses do that when they sort the hay out of the bedding in the manger. The fanning mill sorts the good wheat from the chaf. If you would go down to the root house and pick out a lot of nice large seed potatoes and mark each one with your lead pencil, with a cross on it and leave them among the rest, I'd think yau came from Fool alley in Foolville, the last house. But that's what you do when you vote the old way. You mark the names you want with a cross with a pencil and leave them among the rest for the election officers to pick out if they can. Some folks think, sometimes in a close election, that some of the election officers, way off somewhere in some other part of the country, add a few marks to a few ballots and make them read different. I say they think so because it is so easy to do. That spoils, blights and withers the best thing we have got in America, what we must have in a republic, if it is to stand the test of the ages, the very foundation of Popular government itself that is, A CONFIDENCE IN THE BALLOT."

"God knows boy! Maybe you're

WRITES VERSES TO PRAIRIE DU CHIEN

Former Resident Is Impressed with Opportunity for Sentiment in History of Old City

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., May 20.—Mr. E. C. Aman secretary of the Business Men's Association has received a ieter from Mr. Marcus Dickey of Fairmont, Indiana, enclosing some verses for the consideration of the association. Mr. Dickey says in part: "Years ago I spent a few days at McGregor a few miles below your city and at the time was unusually impressed with the importance of Marquette's great discovery. The famous explorer is one of my historical favorites. His first view of the Mississippi has in it the elements for a great poem. Of course I make no such claim for my lines. All I ask is that your committee give them a reading. If they have merit you are welcome to use them as you like in connection with your anniversary celebration on June 17th."

The Dawn on the Prairie du Chien

Historic Note—Marquette first saw the Mississippi from the shore of the broad Prairie du Chien.

O, the heights and the meadows were gleaming with tears
Of ambrosial delight and the veil was withdrawn
From the rapture and gold of millennial years
When the Prince of the North and the Angel of Dawn
Drew the mantle of Night from the River unseen
And the mist from the shores of the Prairie du Chien.

And lo! A melody glimmers in laughing isles:
Blends with the tide and the shadowing hills,
Sunny glades, nameless cliffs and the onward miles
Of drowsy wood and summer haze on a thousand hills
With the south wind and the voice of the rain
The soul of Marquette and the tribes of the plain.

Who make him the guest of their fatherland
Greet him as one from some mystic shore
Endear the dim tracks of his shoes in the sand
And lead him with pride to their cabin door
Guileless men, and lone regions primival had seen
A light stream from the shores of the Prairie du Chien.

Welcome! Black gown, Welcome! We are men
Harmless the night, and bright is the sun
When you come to visit us. Gladly the glen Tassels the corn. Beats of prey shun
The Fields. The dark frowns of the river cease.
And mild in the storm. Enter our tents in peace.

Never alone was Marquette, nor without the gain
Of Love on his way to the sea. Again and again
The dream of an age yet to be, when the plain
Shall match the mountain with matchless men z
The renown of their deeds encircle the terrene
And strange lands shone the dawn on the Prairie du Chien.

for the age to be
Flow down the broad river of human life
Veil its defects with the sunlight of piety
Cleanse from its tides crucifixions and strife
Make wisdom and strength the rewards of its youth
And illumine its course with devotion to truth.

And the reign of the night and the trees of the wood
Shall rejoice the new day with redress and the wrong
And through the gardens of time, streams of wealth and gold
Shall endlessly blend with its triumphs of peace and song
The new world the round year shall fulfill the foreseen
The bright dream in the dawn on the Prairie du Chien.

There are two kinds of washing powder— GOLD DUST and others

Several so-called cleansing powders are only sal soda. You can buy sal soda at your grocer's under its real name for much less than you can these powders.

Others contain naphtha, ammonia or some other liquid cleanser which evaporates the moment the powder is exposed to the air, or touches hot water. Their much-vaunted virtues vanish like dew before the morning sun.

Gold Dust is the only true washing powder. It is a mixture of vegetable oil soap and purifying ingredients which insure prompt and efficient cleansing action. It softens hard water, does its work quickly and well, and injures nothing. GOLD DUST will do more work and better work than any other washing powder on the market.

There is but one all 'round washing powder—GOLD DUST. Ask for it, and take no substitute.

New York College Woman Enters Dive to Dicker with Procuress for Young Girls

NEW YORK, May 20.—The manner in which negotiations for the purchase of girls to be used as white slaves were carried on were detailed at great length in Judge Gray's court today, when the trial of Belle Moore, the alleged procuress was continued. Mrs. Frances M. Proctor, college graduate and reformer, who gave her occupation as a "special investigator," told of dickering with the Moore woman. She posed as Mme. Frankie Fuller of Seattle and was introduced to the Moore woman by Geo. H. Miller, a former secret service man employed by the Rockefeller grand jury.

She stated that she held several conferences with the Moore woman at which the latter agreed to get her a "bunch of young girls that would be winners" to accompany her to Seattle and enter a resort there. Once the project was rejected but finally a pair were produced and she agreed to pay the Moore woman $120 for them.

"Mme. Fuller" admitted under cross eeamination that she went to Black and Tan concert hall to talk things over with the Moore woman and purchased wine for her.

WYETH'S
SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER
Grew a Full Growth of Hair On a Bald Head

Here's the Proof

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

PATHFINDER HERE LEAVES TOMORROW

Milwaukee Car Arrives in the City Behind Schedule and Remains Over Night

The Rambler pathfinding car which is blazing the route for the state endurance run this summer, arrived at the Stoddard shortly before 12 o'clock this morning, nineteen hours behind the expected time of arrival. The delay was caused by the damaging of an axle at Wonewoc yesterday, when the car ran into a washout, obliging the party to lay over at that place while repairs were made. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Moore of Milwaukee, Driver Frank Roessler and Manning Vaughn sporting editor of the Milwaukee Sentinel. Mr. Moore is president of the state automobile association of which the local club is a member.

The party was met at St. Joseph's Ridge by Frank Hixon, J. W. Bryant and Henry Boehm of the local association. The local men left with association. The party will remain here over night and start for Eau Claire tomorrow moning.

"The roads, generally speaking, were the best that we have found yet," said Mr. Vaughn, when interviewed by The Tribune. "About five miles out of Wonewoc they were poor but the rest of the way proved easy going. Those in this vicinity are the best that we have yet.

"We have decided to leave Winona out of the endurance test as we wish to make it a state affair. It was thought at first that they might be included but the plans were changed."

tape, a winner, while a wild, joyous yell goes up from his teammates, who quickly gather around him and carry him off the field.

Another event is on. Watch these men over here; the bar is set at 8 feet 6 inches and they are to shoot themselves aloft on that pole and clear it, high in the air, falling into the soft dug up sand on the farther side; there goes one now, watch him.

Here come the half milers; they are so numerous that they stretch across the whole track tnd fill it from side to side; the pistol cracks, they are off; see that stout fellow take the lead; too fast, he will never keep up that clip. How they string out; watch the lanky man in black and the sunburnt fellow with the red stripe; they are both running with a strong, even stride, not too far back, not too far ahead; one or the other is going to win this race. Round the second turn and here comes the boy in black; there goes the stout fellow, dropping out, just as we foresaw; man after man is passed; too soon, there, lad, to put on that burst of speed; you can never hold it to the tape. Watch Mr. Redstripe. He is not to be drawn into the sprint so soon; there are 400 yards yet to run. Oh, now he comes, and behind him a man in white, who did not look at all dangerous at the beginning of the race. Two hundred and twenty rods to run, and the blackbird, his bolt completely shot, gives up the struggle and sees his two competitors shoot by him. Down the stretch they come side by side. Here is the runners' purgatory and here the sins of the past are visited upon him. With leaden feet and panting breath, with pounding heart and tired limbs they push on; and woe to the man who has not trained faithfully, whose habits and hours have not been healthful and regular. About ten yards from the tape, and the man in white gives a last despairing effort and gains one short half stride on his exhausted rival; only two feet but it is enough; he holdt it to the end, and falls across the line exhausted, but gloriously happy, a winner.

Where will you find sport to match this; calling for strength, speed, agility, faithful training, gameness. The cleanest sport in the world, without a trace of brutality or coarseness.

The biggest white brute in the world comes to La Crosse and reaps a golden harvest from the people who go to see him show how he is going to mangle and punish the biggest black brute. Aren't there more than a thousand people in the city who are interested enough to come out and watch the sport of the best sportsmen in the world, the high school boys of America? The ball team, the golf links, the speedways will all be here tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow, but the 21st of May is the one day this year when La Crosse can see such a spectacle as this.

a giant highlander. It has whined constantly since the death of the king. The highlander led the dog in the procession immediately ahead of the carriage.

The widowed queen rode in a glass paneled carriage, accompanied by her sister, the dowager czarina and her two daughters. Her white face showed tragically her grief and the deepest sympathy of the spectators was aroused at sight of her.

His Favorites There

Another feature of the parade was the presence on opposite sides of the gun carriage that bore the king's body of Edwards' favorite footman and valet.

All Britain Pauses

Simultaneously with the starting of the procession every railway train and street car throughout Great Britain stopped for intervals fom two to 15 minutes. In every manufacturing plant all labor was suspended temporarily.

An Army of Kings

Chief interest naturally centered in the group of nine kings and emperors that rode horseback almost immediately behind the gun carriage. King George, wearing a general's uniform, came first, with the kaiser and the Duke of Connaught immediately behind him .The kaiser and the duke wore the uniforms of British field marshals. The other kings, all in resplendant uniforms but wearing badges of crepe, were George of Greece, Albert of Belgium, Alfonso of Spain, Manuel of Portugal, Frederick of Denmark, Haaken of Norway and Ferdnand of Bulgaria.

Every possible precaution was taken to prevent any untoward act against any of these rulers.

Roosevelt's Carriage

Col. Roosevelt, the American ambassador to the funeral, rode with Foreign Minister Pichon of France, and Sanad Khan, the Persian representative. The colonel and Pichon wore evening dress, with black waistcoats with black shirt studs and mourning bands. Their attire has been designated by the earl marshal.

United States Ambassador Reid was not in the procession. As a mark of special courtesy to Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel it was arranged that the ambassalor should accompany them to St. Georges chapel, there to await the arrival of the cortege. Mrs. Reid and the other women of the American embassy view the procession from the roof of Dorchester house, the Reid's London house.

Following the passage of the funeral procession the great throng broke into surging seas of humanity and for a time it seemed that the people would become uncontrollable. Thousand hurried to scores of church, where memorial exercises were held.

The Service

The Archbishops led the procession up the aisle, followed by the Bishop of Winchester as prelate of of the order of the Garter shrouded in a long mantle of dark velvet reaching to the feet, with knots of white ribbon on the shoulder for mourning. They were followed by the Bishop of Oxford in a mantle of pure crimson with the surplice of the choir of St. Georges chapel in attendance behind them. Behind them came King George with the the other monarchs.

The opening sentences of the service were sung by the choir to Crofts music as the procession movel towards the altar which was heavily draped in purple. It was noticeable at this point that the insignia of Royalty and the Garter was still carried behind the coffin.

The great procession had hardly settled down before the choir commenced to chant the ninetieth psalm. This was followed by the sentences of the church of England liturgy beginning: "Man that is born to woman," to Wesleys' setting. Seated in the choir were all the members of the Garter, the great British ordr of chivalry.

The coffin was slowly carried up the aisle and laid on the purple bier in front of the altar.

At the conclusion of the service, Norroy, deputy king of arms, stepped forward and in ringing voice, delivered the following proclamation:

The Proclamation

"For as much as it had pleased Almighty God to take over this transitory life into his divine mercy the late Most High, Most Mighty, and Most Excellent Monarch, Edward, by the grace of God, King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, defender of the faith, Emperor of India and sovereign of the most noble order of the Garter, let us humbly beseech Almighty God to bless with long life, health and honor, and all worldly happiness the most high, most mighty, and most excellent monarch, our sovereign Lord George, now by the grace of God, King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, defender of the faith, Emperor of India and sovereign of the most noble order of Garter. God save the king!"

Then came the anthem, "Blessed are the Departed," to Spohr's setting.

The Benediction

The solemn benediction was given by the Archbishop of Canterbury who then went to the communion rail with the Archbishop of York and knelt in silent prayer, after which the congregation left the chapel to the music of Beethoven's funeral march.

Nearly all present were afterwards entertained at luncheon at Windsor castle by the king.

A Somber Affair

Black was the keynote of the entire scene. Excepting the uniforms of soldiers and many of the royal representatives hardly a speck of cution" attempting to rebut testimony which had not appeared upon original examination.

Of Course He Can't

Chairman Nelson read a letter from Ballinger stating that he had been unable to locate either of the two letters which Brandeis said he had reason to believe passed between Ballinger and Geo. W. Perkins of J. P. Morgan and Co.

The "Conspiracy"

The "defense" believes it has traced the "back from Elba" movement to its origin, through the testimony of E. T. Perkins, engineer in charge of the Chicago office of the reclamation service, that about July 18, Jas. R. Garfield, Gifford Pinchot and Thos. R. Shipp for the conservation association, gathered at West Mentor, Iowa, for the purpose of "bringing pressure to bear on Secretary of the Interior Ballinger to retain F. H. Newell as head of the reclamation service."

Perkins professed ignorance of what Pinchot's mission was. He testified that Newell had acquiesced in the efforts of his friends to keep him at the head of the service.

"Conspiracy" evidence was interrupted by Senator Purcell who got Perkins to admit that it didn't seem that Garfield, Pinchot or any of the others were "conspiring." He said he agreed with them that Newell should be retained and joined the "combination" insomuch as he subsequently got a number of influential personal friends to write to Ballinger commending Newell.

Attorney Vertrees, to the surprise of the committee and audience, announced that so far as he was concerned he was willing to dispense with arguments. Attorney Brandeis, however, suggested that counsel be permitted to make oral arguments and also to file briefs.

Upon motion of Senator Sutherland, it was determined to allow each side five hours for argument on Friday and Saturday of next week.

Attorneys Brandeis and Pepper, representing L. R. Glavis and Gifford Pinchot, respectively, will divide the time allotted the "prosecution," it is expected that Attorney Vertrees will take the entire hours for the "defense." The attorneys must file their briefs within 15 days after the close of the arguments.

The committee then adjourned until next Friday.

"The twelve congressional jurors in the Ballinger-Pinchot 'trial' will vote seven to five for the 'acquittal' of Secretary of the Interior Ballinger."

This is the prediction of those here who have followed the case carefully. It is considered probable in view of the fact that the case will close by the end of next week, the Senator Root will cast his vote, although having left Washington yesterday. Undoubtedly the minority will protest against this move but they will likely be outvoted.

Rep. Madison, republican insurgent from Kansas, it is believed will write the opinion of the minority; that is Senators Fletcher and Purcell and Representatives James and Graham, all democrats.

There is a possibility, however, that Rep. Graham, who is best fitted of all the democrats, will write an extremely partisan and drastic opinion against Ballinger, which will represent the sentiment of those of his party, and Rep. Madison may write a separate opinion against the secretary.

CONSERVATIVES WIN PRESBYTERIAN FIGHT

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 20.—The ultra-orthodox forces scored a sweeping victory at today's session of the Presbyterian general assembly. Rev. Dr. E. D. Warfield, presiding official of Fayette College, noted for his opposition to radicalism, was named by Moderator Little to be chairman of the judicial committee to which has been referred the protests against the New York Presbytery for admitting to the ministry three graduates of Union Seminary who questioned certain Bible traditions. Modern school members of the asembly will strenuously object to the judiciary committee considering the case and a lively row is forecasted.

DAMAGES ALLOWED IN ROOFING CASE

The jury in the case of the Stanley Scandinavian Evangelical Lutheran congregation against the La Crosse Steel Roofing and Corrugating company returned a special verdict in circuit court this afternoon, granting the plaintiff damages to the amount of $495. The case was brought on the grounds that a roof constructed by the defendant company was defective, but the jury found that it was not the fault of the defendant, but the poor workmanship on the interior of the roof. The defendant, however, had given a five year guarantee and it was upon this ground that the verdict was rendered.

MAJESTIC SHOP IS A NOBBY PLACE

The Majestic shop, which has been opened in the Majestic theatre building by Clarence Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Webb, is one of the neatest places in the city. While still attending high school during the forenoon, Clarence devotes his time to the business afternoons and evenings. Competent help has been engaged to assist him. The room has been neatly fitted, the south side of the shop being occupied with four "cozy corners." One is the normal corner, one the high school corner, one the Wisconsin corner and the other the Minnesota corner. Each is decorated in the colors of the several football teams. The corners are furnished with handsome tables, couches and pillows, where customers may partake of the dainties sold in the Majestic shop. The decorating was all done by young Webb himself and is very artistic and novel. A soda fountain of the latest style occupies a position in the north end of the room. Mr. Webb is a La Crosse boy and is deserving of the support that he will no doubt receive from his many friends in the city.

S.S.S. CURES OLD BLOOD TROUBLES
Contagious Blood Poison is at the bottom of a great many old blood troubles. The disease may have been contracted years ago and some treatment used that removed the outward symptoms and shut the virus up in the system to slumber in the blood, but it only awaited a favorable opportunity to break out in some form again.
Certain forms of catarrhal troubles, especially where the bones are affected, scrofulous affections, non-healing sores, ulcerated membranes, etc., are due to this specific poison Perhaps many who are afflicted in this way are ignorant of the fact that the seeds of this mighty poison are still hidden in the blood. Like the deadly serpent, which is dangerous as long as the faintest spark of life is left to enable it to sink its poisonous fangs, this powerful disease will corrupt and defile while the least particle of its insidious virus remains in the blood.
The best time to get rid of Contagious Blood Poison is when the disease is first contracted, and before its virus so penetrates the blood as to cause ulcerated mouth and throat, copper-colored spots, falling hair, etc. Then of course the victim is saved much humiliation and suffering; but even after the poison has become established in the system it can be removed and a cure effected if the blood be thoroughly purified with S. S. S.
S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It possesses penetrating powers that enable it to go down into the blood, and remove the last trace of blood poison. It cures all blood troubles simply and solely because it removes the cause from the circulation. Not only does S. S. S. cure cure Contagious Blood Poison when first contracted, but reaches it in any of its stages even where the trouble has been inherited. S. S. S. is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, and does not contain the slightest trace of mineral in any form. You canget rid of your old blood trouble if you will take S. S. S. and allow it to purify the blood. Book on the blood and any medical advice free.

A PERFECT CURE.
Some eight years ago I was inoculated with poison by a nurse who infected my babe with blood taint. I was covered with sores and ulcers from head to foot. No language can express my feelings of woe during these long years. I was advised by friends who had seen wonderful cures made by it, to try S.S.S. We got some and I improved from the start, and a complete and perfect cure was the result. S.S.S. is the only blood remedy which reaches desperate cases of old blood troubles.

ENGLAND WEEPS AND BURIES HIM

color was visible. In the throng of spectators from the aristocrat to the humblest workmen everyone was clad in the same sombre hue. Most of them had waited many hours before the procession began to file slowly from the main Westminster Hall gate. But even from a spectacular point of view their long wait was well rewarded. London had seen many picturesque pageants in the past but none that has even approached today's. The procession was made up as follows:

The Procession

An officer of the headquarter's staff.

Advance guard of the sovereign's escort of royal life guards, in brass helmets, white plufes, steel cuirrasses, white buckskin breeches and huge jack boots.

Knight Marshal's men in scarlet and purple uniforms.

Drummers of the foot guards.

Detachments of practically every military body in England with their bands. Among them were scarlet coated grenadiers, scots, cold stream and Irish guards with huge black bearskin headgear. helmeted intantrymen, blue and gold artillery men, blue and white and red lancers, blue and gold gold hussars, brass helmeted dragoons and dragoon guards cuirassed life guards. cuirassed horseguards. green clad riflemen, kilted highlanders and khaki-garbed territorials.

Detachments from the royal navy, including the royal marine light infantry, royal marine infantry, and companies of blue jackets from various ships.

Foreign militia detachments representing practically every European power.

Staff of the royal household, judges of the high courts in wigs and ermine trimmed scarlet robes and members of the privy council in all kinds of uniforms. official and court dress.

Groups of foreign military attaches. gorgeously uniformed and plumed.

Famous Soldiers Participate

Headquarter's staff of the British army. equally magnificent. Included in this group were four men who attracted more than usual attention, admiration and respectful scrutiny, for they wore scarlet uniforms, gold oak leaf epaulets, broad blue sashes and varicolored plumed hats and carried the batons which proclaimed that the British field marshals Earl Roberts or Bobs, Lord Kitchener, the iron man. Sir George White and Sir Charles Brown Low, a quartette of the most famous soldiers in the world.

Admirals Sir Arthur Wilson. Lord Fisher and Sir E. Y. Seymour

Bands of the royal marine light infantry. massed guards regiments, royal engineers and royal artillery.

The Duke of Norfolk, Earl Marshal of England.

White Staves—Lord Belper, the Duke of Buccleuch and the Earl Waldegrave, Lord Chamberlain and Lord Carrington and Lords Steward, Earl Beauchamp, each with six aides de camp.

Casket Drawn by Sailors

Gun carriage drawn by 100 sailors bearing coffin with a bearer party on either side of non-commissioned officers of the guards and household cavalry. Outside these the lines of honorary pall bearers including several of the best known men in England. Hedging both groups around a detachment of relics of a by gone age—the yeomen of the guard in magnificent scarlet and gold tudor uniforms.

Admiral Prince Louis of Battenburg.

King Edward's favorite charger in full state trappings, but with purple and crepe rosetts and forehead boots of a field marshal reversed in stirrups.

Royal standard, borne by an officer of the household cavalry.

King George with aide de camp and equerry.

Duke of Connaught, the late King's brother and the Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, his nephew, on either side and slightly behind the king.

Field officer in waiting Master of the horse Earl Granard.

Seven Monarchs Present

Then followed the seven other monarchs of Europe. King George of Greece, King Alfonso of Spain, King Manuel of Portugal, King Haaken of Norway, Frederick of Denmark, King Albert of Belgium, and Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria. Grouped immediately behind these kings and riding three abreast, came a display of lesser royalty, such as the world has never before seen assembled.

Chief among these was Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria, Prince Henry of Prussia, Prince Henry of Holland, Crown Prince of Servia, Prince Arthur of Connaught, the Duke of Aosta, Duke of Fife, Grand Duke Michael of Russia, Prince Francis of Trent, Prince Alexander of Trent, Grand Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, Crown Princes of Roumania and Montenegro, Prince Mohammed Ali of Egypt, Prince Youssouff Ezzedin of Turkey, Prince Tsai Tao. uncle of the emperor of China, Prince Charles of Sweden, and nearly fifty other scions of the ruling houses of Europe.

This procession of lesser royalty wound up the mounted part of the procession and was followed by a long line of carriages.

One of these carriages was occupied by Alexandra, the queen mother, her sister, the dowager czarina, and Princess Louisa and Princess Victoria.

Queen Mary, Queen Maud of Norway, the Duke of Cornwall and his sister, Princess Mary were in the second carriage.

The succeeding four carriages were filled with princes of the British royal family.

Then followed in carriages foreign diplomats.

Teddy Leads the Diplomats

The first of these contained Col. Theo. Roosevelt, the American ambassador to the funeral; M. Pichon, the French foreign minister, and Sanad Khan, the Persian representative. Roosevelt wore a conventional frock coat and silk hat with a heavy band of mourning about the hat. The next carriage contained Lord Strathcona, Sir Greid, and Sir Hall-Jones, representing Canada, Australia and New Zealand respectively. Other carriages were filled with members of the royal suites. One of these contained ex-Ambassador Henry White who was accredited as minister plenipotentiary by the American government, Lieut. Commander Reginald R. Belknap, U. S. naval attache at Berlin, and Major T. Bentley Mott, U. S. A., military attache at Paris.

The later two were aides to Col. Roosevelt. U. S. Ambassador Reid had a position close to the front in the line of diplomatic representatives.

Detachments of foreign regiments followed and the procession closed with a rear guard of fire and police brigades.

SPECIAL PROSECUTOR IN WHITE SLAVE CASE

JAMES BRONSON REYNOLDS

NEW YORK.—The evidence produced before the special grand jury investigating the white slave traffic of which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is foreman, has been so great that a special prosecutor for the white slave cases alone has been appointed. Mr. James Bronson Reynolds, well known in legal circles, was the man chosen.

When mother thinks she is being pretty strict with her children, the neighbors are saying it is a shame the way she is spoiling them.

PATHFINDER GOES INTO A WASHOUT

Pilot M. C. Moore Meets with an Accident at Wonewoc, Delaying Run Here

The pathfinder automobile in the reliability run, which is being piloted by M. C. Moore, met with an accident yesterday afternoon near Wonewoc and was obliged to lay up there for the night. The damage was in the form of a bent axle and was unavoidable, the car running into a washout.

Early this morning the car left Wonewoc headed this way. The run from Madison to Portage, the last part along the most historic bit of old Wisconsin, was favored by fine roads. Deep sand in spots slowed the progress of the pathfinder. but as a whole the roads were in splendid shape. From Portage across the Wisconsin river to Baraboo was another good run. The roads were fairly good, though six inches deep in sand at several places. Baraboo was reached at 11 o'clock and a two hours' stay was made for lunch.

From Baraboo to Reedsburg, up to picturesque valley of the Baraboo river was the best of the trip. The country is hilly, but the highways for the most part are fine and the scenery is beautiful. From Wonewoc the pathfinder will be headed for Elroy, thence through Ontario, Cashton, Newberg Corners, St. Joseph to La Crosse.

It is expected that President F. P. Hixon of the La Crosse Automobile club will meet the car en route. In the towns passed on Thursday interest in the run is intense and big preparations are being made to welcome the contestants when they pass through in July.

MISS VINECRAF TO CONDUCT SERVICES

Miss Cora Vinecraf, teacher of the Galesville high school will conduct the vesper service at the Y. W. C. A. Sunday afternoon. Miss Emma Hanson, a La Crosse teacher, will sing.

What has become of the old-fashioned woman whose idea of meeting any emergency was to light the fire and put the kettle on?

A lot of valuable time is wasted to marry their housekeepers as widows have to marry their hired men.

STREET CAR HITS AN AUTOMOBILE

In an effort to cross the street car tracks at the corner of Tenth and Main streets, about 7 o'clock last evening, ahead of an approaching car, William Yeo, 706 Pine street, was unable to make it and the car crashed into his machine, whirling it around but little damage resulted. Mr. and Mrs. Yeo were in the auto and while both were badly frightened, neither was injured. The car, No. 25, in charge of Conductor Jones, was running eastward and the automobile was running south. Mr. Yeo said he thought he had time to cross the tracks ahead of the car and applied full power, but he failed to get across in htime. The fender of the street car was bent, but otherwise no damage was done.

CONSTIPATION MUNYON'S PAW-PAW PILLS

Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are unlike all other laxatives or cathartics. They coax the liver into activity by gentle methods. They do not scour; they do not gripe; they do not weaken; but they do start all the secretions of the liver and stomach in a way that soon puts these organs in a healthy condition and corrects constipation. In my opinion constipation is responsible for most ailments. There are thirty-two feet of human bowels, which is really a sewer pipe. When this pipe becomes clogged, the whole system becomes poisoned, causing biliousness, indigestion and impure blood, which often produces rheumastism and kidney ailments. No woman who suffers with constipation or any liver complaint can expect to have a clear complexion, or enjoy good health.

Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are a tonic to the stomach, liver and nerves. They invigorate instead of weakening; they enrich the blood instead of impoverishing it; they enable the stomach to get all the nourishment from food that is put into it.

These pills contain no calomel, no dope, they are soothing, healing and stimulating. They school the bowels to act without physic. Price 25 cents.

"Chantecler"

The literary and dramatic sensation of the decade.
Exclusive publication in Hampton's Magazine

M. Edmond Rostand—author of "Cyrano de Bergerac," "L'Aiglon," etc.—has produced in "Chantecler" the greatest satiric play of the age—the greatest literary sensation.

People of culture all over the world are eagerly awaiting its publication. It is being discussed daily in schools, literary circles, theatrical circles, fashion circles—everywhere. "Chantecler" is distinctly and pre-eminently the rage.

500,000 copies of the French book have already been sold and the demand increases. The success of the play is tremendous, not only in Paris but throughout all France, where it is being presented by several companies. M. Rostand's royalties are estimated at 2,500,000 francs—and this sum will probably increase.

Surely, you will not regard us as extravagant when we say that you must read "Chantecler."

The sarcastic and amusing, pathetic and kindly portrayal of human emotions and human characteristics through the mouths of fowls will afford you line after line of exquisite delight and relish. The character of the Cock is magnificent. Though an egotist he is broadminded, tenderhearted, wholly lovable—as remarkable and striking a hero as literature has seen in centuries. The Hen Pheasant is a New Woman—and very charming. The Black Bird, the Watch Dog, the Guinea Hen, the Peacock—every character is fascinating.

M. Rostand has chosen HAMPTON'S MAGAZINE as the medium through which to present "Chantecler" to the English-reading world. The translation is by Miss Gertrude Hall, whose excellent rendition of "Cyrano de Bergerac" met with M. Rostand's keen approval. Each instalment will be profusely illustrated in colors.

M. Rostand has protected his work with the most stringent of copyrights; you will not be able to read the English version of the play anywhere except in HAMPTON'S MAGAZINE.

The first instalment appears in HAMPTON'S MAGAZINE for June. Now on sale. Price 15 cents.

If your newsdealer is sold out, send fifty cents for the four numbers—June, July, August and September—containing "Chantecler" complete.

ADDRESS: HAMPTON'S MAGAZINE, 66 WEST 35TH STREET, NEW YORK.

The Evening Post, New York, says: "The publishers of HAMPTON'S have undoubtedly shown enterprise in capturing the two biggest stories of the year in Peary's North Pole and Rostand's Drama."

ARRESTED WITH STOLEN GOODS

Chicago Man Picked Up with Articles Said to Be Missing from a Drug Store

William Hennesey, who claims his home is in Chicago, was arrested by the police and at the police station he was found to be in possession of a bottle of alcohol, which he purchased at Hoeschler Bros.' drug store and also two packages of toilet powder, which were reported to have been stolen from the store. When he was arrested the man said his name was Edward, but later he said it was William Hennesey.

THE COUPON BALLOT.

right. I often wondered if they counted the ballots as honest everywhere as we do here. This is a big country of ours and if it has got to be held together by so slender a cord as confidence in the ballot it would hurt to surround elections with everything possible to prevent suspicion."

"But," continued the old man, "when you come to talk about every one learning it so dead easy, you're off. You think so because you hope so, but it wont be so. I don't care how simple it is. I don't care if it was so simple that a baby could do it, naturally without thinking, some of the people will persist in being wrong. It's in 'em to be wrong.

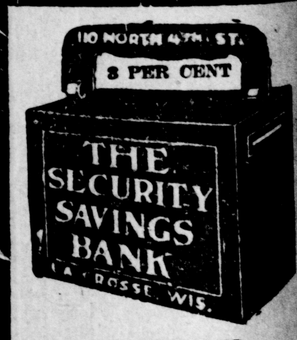

"I used to know an old nigger that lived two miles due north of the county seat in a county where I was in Missouri just after the war. There wasn't any bridge across a small stream so the road from where he lived to town led down the river a mile and a half where the stream could be forded. From there it took a devious course around a mountain and amounted to five miles.

"The old fellow had traveled this crooked road so many time he could make it with his eyes shut. One summer, while the old man was sick, a bridge was built and the road straightened, straight as a crow flies to Putville. The old road had been plowed up and fenced up and was a thing of the past. When the old nigger got well enough he started for town. Found the old road gone and backed up to inquire. He was told that he should take the new pike and keep going straight until he got there. That he could not miss it. That all he had to do was to head south and foller his nose."

"Well off he started, 'bout an hour before sundown. It wasn't more'n twenty minutes until he was back again, lookin' as bewildered as a scared Irishman. 'Massa scuse me sah' said he 'you done tole me how to get dah all right but I clean fugot to ax you how Ize gwine to git home agin. Gess I better not go ti'l tomorra.'"

THE SITUATION IN ILLINOIS

Is Constipation Curable? Try this Free

I believe that thousands of people suffer needlessly from constipation simply through ignorance of what kind of a remedy to take. You cannot cure a chronic trouble by one flushing of the colon, as is the case when salts and purgative waters are used. And it is a well-known fact that cathartic pills, after the first relief, bind the bowels all the more. These things seldom do more than temporary good.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

a remedy that I have sold through druggists for a quarter of a century comes much nearer to the ideal method of cure. It is a liquid, mild, pleasant-tasting and non-griping. A baby can use it with safety, yet it is effective in the strongest person. It gives relief promptly, and by continuing its use briefly the stomach muscles are trained to again do their work naturally, and then you can dispense with medicines. To prove these claims I will gladly send a free sample bottle to any sufferer from chronic constipation, liver trouble, sick headache, heartburn, sour stomach and similar digestive complaints. You have only to send me your name and address. After using the sample, if you then feel sure it is the remedy you have so long sought, buy it of your druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a bottle. Thousands of heads of families always keep it in the house, as it can be used by all.

DR. CALDWELL PERSONALLY WILL BE PLEASED TO GIVE YOU ANY MEDICAL ADVICE YOU MAY DESIRE FOR YOURSELF OR FAMILY PERTAINING TO THE STOMACH, LIVER OR BOWELS, ABSOLUTELY FREE OF CHARGE. EXPLAIN YOUR CASE IN A LETTER AND HE WILL REPLY TO YOU IN DETAIL. FOR THE FREE SAMPLE SIMPLY SEND YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS ON A POSTAL CARD OR OTHERWISE. FOR EITHER REQUEST THE DOCTOR'S ADDRESS IS DR. W. B. CALDWELL, R-524 CALDWELL BLDG., MONTICELLO, ILL.

I received a sample bottle of your Syrup Pepsin and was so pleased with it I sent to the drug store and got a $1 bottle and a 50 cent bottle, and my little girl four years old is in better health than she has ever been in her life. I have no more trouble with her bowels and stomach, and I thank you for your Syrup Pepsin. I can not praise Syrup Pepsin too highly. My mother also is using it.—Mrs. Carrie Culler, 325 N. Notre Dame street, South Bend, Ind.

We thank you for the sample bottle of Syrup Pepsin. If we could not get any more than that, we would certainly keep it for the good it has done us. Our house is never without it nor never will be as long as we can raise a dollar. It's the balm of life in our home.—J. Henry Hankla, Junction City, Ky.

I received the sample bottle and am using the second 50-cent bottle procured at one of my local druggists. Results were the most satisfactory. Am advertising Syrup Pepsin to everyone that is interested.—O. F. WISHER, Sycamore, Ill.

I was for years a constant sufferer from chronic indigestion and constipation and had almost given up hope of ever being cured, but Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has made a well man of me and I write to acknowledge my gratitude to Dr. Caldwell and to the Pepsin Syrup Co.—F. M. HARRINGTON, Pres. Harrington Mfg. Co., Peoria, Ill.

BUSY REDUCING YOUR FAT?

Are fat folks enthusiastic about performing athletic stunts when garbed in heavy woolen underclothing? No—not enthusiastic. Do they subscribe readily to a diet of half a glass of buttermilk and a toasted cracker? No—not readily. Are they happy, then, while reducing by such methods, during this hot weather? No—they are not e xactly happy.

Some fat reducers are happy though during the process, but these neither exercise nor diet. They lose fat—as much as a pound a day, in many instances—but they do it without missing a single, righteous meal or lifting an unnecessary finger. These emancipated ones reduce either in hot weather or cold, without bother or harm to themselves, by taking quietly and secretly, and even cunningly—one little Marmola Prescription Tablet after each meal and at bedtime.

That's all. They get their tablets (made after the formula of the famous prescription) in large, generously filled cases at a cost of seventy-five cents the case from any drug store or from the makers, the Marmola Co., 791 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., take one as per directions, and get as thin as they want to be—just that way, without causing a wrinkle or the least internal fuss.

Cheron has taken up Roosevelt's "anti-race suicide" hobby but is praising his ideas in bouquets instead of wielding the Roosevelt "big stick."

BEGIN COAST RUN BY AUGUST FIRST

Semi - Official Announcement Is Made that Pacific Coast Service will Start that Day

It has been semi-officially announced at the general offices of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway, that the trans-continental rail service between Chicago and the Pacific coast will be started August first. The exact date and the announcement of it has as yet, however, not been made by President Earling, but other operating officials at Chicago, who are in close touch with the president and the system, have semi-officially announced, as it is termed, that this will be the day chosen to commence the biggest railroad feat ever attempted in the history of rail traffic.

The trains will run directly through this city and local residents will be benefited greatly by the service.

It is the plan of the road to operate sixteen trains a day. In preparation for this great movement of passenger cars, coaches of all sorts have been assembled at Seattle and and at Wisconsin. All the available cars are being gathered together at these terminals.

JUDGE SENTENCES HIM TO OPERATION

CHICAGO, May 20.—The science of criminology has found a new advocate in Judge Barnes of the county criminal court. When he discovered that Wm. Anzer, 20 years old, convicted of larceny, did not become lawless until he injured his head, he postponed the sentence against Anzer pending an examination by surgeons. Before the jury filed out to deliberate on a verdict, Judge Barnes said to the prisoner:

"If you are convicted and wish it, I shall have an operation performed on your head. I think it might help you. If a surgeon tells me there is anything wrong with you, I shall upon my own responsibility waive sentence."

CHURCH CASE GOES TO JURY AT 10:40

The court then took up the garnishment case of Albert Jandt vs. T. J. Emery, Lee Krammer, garnishee, and A. C. Wolfe interpleaded.

PAPKE VICTORIOUS; FANS DISGUSTED

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—Billy Papke knocked out Joe Thomas in the sixteenth round of what was scheduled to have been a 20 round fight in the Dreamland rink, last night. Fight fans who witnessed the encounter left disgusted.

The fight seemed to have been so arranged that Thomas should last for 15 rounds. Both fighters loafed. As early as the seventh there were cries of fake but Referee Jack Welch refused to put an end to the fight. In the sixteenth round Papke came out of his lethargy and put Thomas to sleep without trouble.

Convicts are the only people who do not believe in their convictions.

RED WING LOSES A DOUBLE HEADER

RED WING, Minn., May 20.—The hoodoo still clings to the Red Wing baseball team, Eau Claire taking both games from the Manufacturers yesterday. The first contest went 11 innings. An error in the first inning gave Eau Claire three scores. Pitcher Short, former Milwaukee hurler for Eau Claire, was pounded for 12 hits, of which three were for extra bases. With the bases filled in both the tenth and eleventh frames, Red Wing was unable to push the winning run across the plate. Widel pitched a strong game, holding the Commissioners to eight hits. Criss was pounded freely in the second game, the visitors scoring an easy victory. Red Wing's hurling corps is still weak, but every effort is being made to secure a few experienced twirlers before the team leaves on the trip around the circuit.

WHITE SOX WANT LYLE PETTIJOHN

DULUTH, Minn., May 20.—In seeking for baseball meat Duluth is attempting to sign up Lyle Pettijohn, the crack first sacker of the university team. "Petty," as he is known in athletic circles, was a star of the Gopher football team of the last two years and is just now, under the tutelage of Walter Wilmot, developing into an infielder of great promise. He is hitting and fielding in splendid style, and as Duluth needs just this sort of a chap on the first station, Kuehnow is angling for the Gopher and at the close of the college year "Petty" may decide to take the plunge and try it out on the regular circuit.

KRONER'S STORE IS BROKEN INTO

Wholesale Establishment Is Entered, but Nothing Is Taken by the Burglars

The wholesale establishment of the Fred Kroner Hardware Comstreets, was entered by burglars last sreets, was entered by burglars last night, but investigation shows that nothing was stolen. This morning when the employes arrived at the store they found a window broken in the rear of the building and on looking through the store they found that several drawers in the desks in the office had been pried open with a screw driver, but nothing was taken. Several boxes containing revolvers had also been taken and a quantity of cheap watches were found lying on the counters, but as far as can be learned nothing is missing.

It is thought that the burglars were frightened away and left the store before they had finished a thorough search of the building. The matter has been reported to the police but no clew has been found.

PIONEER VIROQUA WOMAN NO MORE

Mrs. Cornelius Stevens Gaines was born in New York state in 1836. Fifty-four years ago she came to Wisconsin, where she was united in marriage with Levi R. Gaines. To them were born four children—two girls and two boys. The former died in childhood. The two sons, Edward and Eugene, survive their mother. Mrs. Gaines has two brothers living, Oscar C. Stevens of La Crosse, and F. M. Stevens of Pasadena, California.

Mrs. Gaines was one of the older residents of this city, having lived in Viroqua or in the immediate vicinity for fully half a century. For several years Mrs. Gaines had not enjoyed good health and had often been confined to her home by illness, but it was not till Monday of last week that she became dangerously ill. After suffering greatly for three days she passed away on Friday morning. The disease was cancerous in nature and there was severe heart trouble.

The name of Mrs Gaines appears on the list of the Viroqua Congregational church members, under date of April 1, 1860, when she made profession of her Christian faith. So for fifty years she had been identified with the church with which she faithfully worshiped and in which she was an earnest worker. At the time of her decease she held the office of treasurer of the women's home missionary society.

Funeral services were held at the Gaines home last Saturday afternoon, Rev. A. E. Hartwell and Rev. G. W Nuzum officiating. Relatives present were Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Gaines of Wibaux, Montana; Earl E. Gaines of Ismay, Montana; J. Harry Gaines of Beloit, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Stevens of La Crosse, and Mrs. Blanche Fritsch of Chicago. — Vernon County Censor.

JOSEPH EBNER EXPIRES TODAY

Decedent was the First Male Child Born in La Crosse County

Joseph Ebner, the first male child born in La Crosse county, died this morning at 10 o'clock at his home, 213 South Third street, of cancer, after an illness of nearly four months. For some time he had been failing in health but it was not until about the first of February that he was obliged to take to his bed. Since then, however, he gradually failed and it was known for several weeks that the end was near.

Decedent was born in Ebner's Coulee, March 17, 1850. He was the first white male child born in the county. The first child was Frances Helt, now Mrs. Boechman. Decedent lived at the old homestead until about 25 years ago when he removed to La Crosse and for many years was proprietor of the European hotel, which was located on the corner of Third and Jay streets. Since then he has been in the retail liquor business.

He was united in marriage 18 years ago to Miss Henriette Steinka, who died about a year ago. Surviving are two brothers, Fred, who resides in Ebner's Coulee, and Paul, who left here about ten years ago.

The funeral will be held from the house Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock Rev. J. T. Gamm officiating and interment will be made in Oak Grove cemetery.

GOV. GILLETT SPEAKS AT BANKERS' MEET

SPARTA, Wis., May 20.—Governor J. N. Gillett of California is in the city visiting his old friends and incidentally he made an after dinner speech at the meeting of the Bankers at their banquet. His arrival in the city was entirely informal and no one knew of his coming at this time. Gov. Gillett is a former Sparta boy and is remembered here as a graduate of the Sparta high school. He afterwards studied law here. He left Sparta 27 years ago and went to California where he has met with great success in the field of law and also in politics. He has been Governor of the Golden Gate state and is now serving in that capacity, winning the popular favor of both parties. Although he would have an easy run for re-election on the republican ticket, he states that he is through with politics and will not accept a re-nomination but will go back to his law practice.

Governor Gillett will visit his old time friends here for several days going from here to Viroqua and other Vernon county points to visit friends and relatives. He is returning home from a trip to Washinfton, D. C., and other eastern points.

MAY SEE PASSION PLAY IN THIS CITY

The Oberamergau Passion Play, as it is given at present, will be prosented in stereopticon views at the First German Methodist church, corner Seventh and Ferry streets, Sunday evening. The origin of the play will be explained. It will be shown that the Passion Play as far back as the 12th century had been performed. At the close of the 16th century a terrible pestilence broke out in the village of Oberamergau. The plague spread from house to house in such deadly effect that in 33 days 84 of the villagers had perished. Curative methods were utterly useless. Where the plague struck death followed. They cried to God and vowed if they were delivered they would every ten years perform the Passion play. From that hour the plague was stayed. Thus it was that the Passion Play became a fixed institution in Oberamergau and has been performed ever since. No admission will be charged.

GREAT INTER-STATE TRACK AND FIELD MEET TOMORROW AT FAIR GROUNDS

TWELVE CITIES SEND ATHLETES

Stars of the State will Participate in Biggest Athletic Event Ever Held Here

85 ENTRIES ARE RECEIVED

All Events will Be Filled in One of Biggest Matches Ever Held in the State

Tomorrow afternoon La Crosse will be the scene of the biggest field and track meet ever held in this section of the state, and second to none held on Badger soil, when the big interstate field and track meet is pulled off at the interstate fair grounds.

Cities in this section will be represented and almost ninety entries have been received by the local committee in charge of the big event. Some of the best athletes in the state will participate, including such stars as Tormey and Field of Madison, Remondino and Chapman of Winona, Evans of Alma, Tinker and Ofstie of Eau Claire, Hanson and Walters of Menominee, Bradish and Keeler of La Crosse, Dorais and Hunt of Chippewa Falls, and Abrahamson of Sparta, Ofstie, Lorais, Kuranz, Remondino, Tormey, Walters and Hunt all hold state records, and their appearance will insure keen rivalry in all events.

It is costing the La Crosse high school athletic authorities who are promoting the meet $347.84 to put on the meet and the teams have been in training for three months. Its importance is illustrated by the fact that Madison has given up a big meet at the University of Wisconsin to come, while Menominee gives up a similar meet at the U. M. It is declared to be the biggest similar athletic meet ever held in the state. The track has been dragged and rolled into perfect condition.

The medals and awards are the best obtainable, one shield cup being worth $120. The street cars, bill board and newspapers have been used generously in advertising the meet and an elaborate program is being prepared.

Judges Chosen

Prof. A. A. Johnson of the County Agricultural school at Onalaska will act as referee of the big meet. The track judges are L. P. Benezet, S. A. Boyd and Harry Spence; field judges, A. Dahlgren, T. Brindley and J. Dahlgren; timers, Otto Wieland, O. Gudenschwager, H. Benton and A. Mueller; measurers, G. Gund and H. Wensole; clerk of track events, Ben R. Brindley; clerk of field events, Walter Shirley; manager, John W. Young; assistant manager, Ed Schwalbe.

Events Start at 1:45

Owing to the length of the program and the number of events the management of the event has decided to start the contests at 1:45 sharp tomorrow afternoon.

Events and Entries

The events and number of entrants:

100 yard dash, 22 men.
Shot put, 17 men.
440 yard run, 19 men.
High hurdles, 9 men.
Broad jump, 17 men.
Discus throw, 16 men.
220 yard dash, 22 men.
Mile run, 18 men.
High jump, 16 men.
Hammer throw, 14 men.
220 yard hurdles, 14 men.
Pole vault, 15 men.
Half mile run, 22 men.

Delegations are Coming

Besides the big crowds which are expected to attend locally delegations are expected from Menominee, Eau Claire, Alma, Chippewa Falls, Winona, Bangor, Tomah, Galesville, Sparta, Beloit and Madison, all of which cities will enter athletes in the contests.

Stores down town have said they are willing to close and merchants have agreed to make up any deficiency, but the management of the big meet does not want to call upon them, and desires a big crowd out to insure all expenses. Sparta has chartered a special car and Winona has telephoned for fifty reserved seats, indicating the grand stand will be filled. Madison charges and gets from 50 cents to $2 every year for an event no bigger than this and the high school boys who have undertaken this event feel the people should patronize such an undertaking here to insure its success and repetition.

La Crosse Optimistic

Prof. L. P. Benezet through whose efforts the first of these track and field meets was arranged does not expect La Crosse to win this year's meet owing to the fine material competing, but is hopeful of good results, Mr. Benezet says;

"La Crosse is not expecting to win the meet. However, last year when we heard that Menominee was coming, we didn't imagine we had the ghost of a show. Menominee had a well rounded team, strong in sprints, distance, weights and jumps. The only thing they did not have was a hurdler. They had won the Minnesota state meet by a big margin and they would have won the Madison meet beyond a shadow of a doubt, but as it was their entries got in too late and they were shut out of the meet. Thus on paper it looked as though La Crosse did not have a look-in. A great many of the teams were taking part in their first track meet and some of the best material was not available on account of scolarship deficiencies.

"It was a tremendous surprise tt everybody when La Crosse made such a remarkable fight, losing out by margins so small that it was practically a tie. The difference of an inch between third and fourth place in the discus throw gave Menominee the meet.

"In the high jump Abrahamson of Sparta tied Jackson of Menominee for first place and then knocked the bar off as he was descending from the further side.

"A poor arrangement of the program forced F. Novak of La Crosse to run the final of 100 yard dash immediately after finishing the one half mile, so that he was beaten out by three inches in slower time than he had made in his trial heat.

"This year there is a great deal of untried material as there was last. Of last year's team Tourtellotte, Roddy, Gordon, Novak, Harrison and Werner have graduated. Gund has been operated on for appendicitis and has been ordered to keep out of athletics for some time. There is a big question as to whether teams that were here before, like Madison and Chippewa Falls, will cut into La Crosse's points or show their greatest strength in events where Menominee, Eau Claire and Winona are likewise strong. At any rate it will be a great meet from the crack of the starter's pistol."

OUTCASTS LOSE TO THE RED SOX

Errors and Plenty of Swatting Wins for Superior by a Score of 8 to 5

GAME PLAYED UNDER PROTEST

Safford Objects, Claiming that Pitcher Peterson Interfered with Base Runner

Numerous errors at critical moments in the game and plenty of stick work on the part of Superior lost for La Crosse the first game this season at the League park yesterday afternoon by the score of 8 to 5. Joe Safford protested the game in the ninth inning, claiming that Pitcher Peterson of the Red Legs interfered with Connell running to first. The pitcher butted the base runner as he was travelling the distance and Connell might have reached the base but for the butting he received.

Wolford pitched for the locals and did good work on the mound but hits combined with errors proved his undoing. The La Crosse team hit better than the Superiorites but they could not make the bingles count. And besides we couldn't hope to win all the time and it wasn't to be expected that we could maintain that 1.000 mark in the percentage column very long. Superior is welcome to the victory and today we are ready for the Lumberjacks.

Up to the seventh inning the score was tied and the game looked good for extra innings but in that awful eighth the Red Legs made good with two runs safely stowing the game away. McGraw flied to Doll and Clements followed with a bingle in left. Kourick slammed one to Conell nell, who failed to get the ball to first. Schaeffer struck out and McCullach got a free walk to first base. Caldwell uncorked a hit in center field scoring Clements and Kourick. Red McCullach ended this round by being caught at second.

In the ninth the Red Sox added three more runs, putting the score away up where it was impossible to touch it. Bancroft started the round by flying out to Kuehn but Peterson walloped the pill to left for a hit and Landry grounded to second, Wais failing to hash up the right sort of stuff at the right moment and the runner was safe. McGraw poled the leather into center field, scoring Peterson. Clements followed with a red hot one to third, scoring Landry On a passed ball McGraw scored. Kourick hit Wolford in the shins and was safe at first. Schaeffer flied out to Connell and McCullach grounded out in the same place.

The Outcasts showed their neverdie spirit in the ninth, fighting all the time to tie up the score. The spirit made the right impression with the fans and they were pulling for the tying run. Wais started with a swat to left and Nelson, who was put in to bat for Wolford, lined out a pretty one to center. Connell was out at first and here Safford protested, alleging interferente on the part of Peterson. Ward struck out and Kline sailed one into center, scoring Wais. Safford hit in the same place scoring Nelson. Doll ended the game by flying out on a high foul which Bancroft speared back of third.

Catcher Lizzette of Superior broke his finger in the sixth inning, being hit on the member by a fast pitched ball from Peterson. Schaeffer was substituted and Lizzie was taken down town to a doctor. The score:

SAYS JEFFRIES IS IN CONDITION

Jack Melville of New York, who is Visiting N. M. Scott, Says Fighter is in Great Shape

COMES HERE FROM THE CAMP

Where Jeffries is Working Hard and where Armstrong Says Jack Has No Show at All

Jefries has not only regained his fine condition of the old days but when he meets Johnson on July 4 in San Francisco all the mokes' hopes for a clear title to the championship will be blacker than his skin, according to Jack Melville, New York city, who is in La Crosse as the guest of Mr. N. M. Scott of the Nicholson-Scott company.

Melville, who has been a personal friend of Jefries for the past ten years, has just returned from the big fellow's camp in California, where he spent ten days as his guest.

"Jeffries himself is reticent about the probable outcome of the fight," said Melville to a Tribune reporter this afternoon, "but Sam Berger, Billy Papke and the rest of the gang in camp appreciate just what he is worth.

"In reply to a query by a United Press correspondent about what he thought of the fight's outcome Jeffries merely countered with the question: 'Do I look like a fortune teller?'"

Is Training Hard

Jefries, says Melville, is even stronger now that he was when he was in the game regular and is training harder than he ever did before.

He will make weight without question but just how much he weighs Jeffries refuses to announce and the question is a touchy one with him.

"As an appetizer for breakfast," said Melville, "Jeffries tosses off a 12 mile run. He is usually accompanied on these little trots with Farmer Burns or Billy Papke and some times both of them.

"There is a lot of talk t hat the big fellow isn't training but let me tell you he is. He is working hard and faithfully and he shows it. He is at present about as perfect a specimen of manhood as can be found."

Celebrities in Camp

According to Melville Jeffries' camp includes quite a list of celebrities. Billy Papke is there with his brother, Manager Ed Papke. Dick Adams of Oakland, is there, together with Sam Berger and Bob Armstrong, the negro who acted as Johnson's second in the Johnson-Ketchel fight.

"Armstrong and Jim go to it every day," says Melville "and Armstrong admits that nothing can stop Jeffries. He has boxed and trained with Johnson and after trying the two his opinion is that no human being can stand up against Jeffries if the latter gets mad."

The talk that the fight will not be pulled off in California is absurd, says Melville, and according to him, "A Vermont minister that tries to stop a prize fight that means millions to California has about as much show as I would have stopping the Pioneer limited by standing beside the track with a grip at De Soto."

Tex Rickard, who has been agreed upon to referee suits both parties, said Melville, although Jeffries is not personally acquainted with him.

Jeffries Well Educated

In discussing Jeffries personally Melville said that the idea that the big fellow is nothing but a "bruiser" is wrong and that reality he is as well educated if not better than many of his "knockers."

"You can't appreciate Jim until you have visited him in his home. The word fight and all references to his work in the ring are absolutely forbidden and his wife is about as nice and clever a little woman as you would meet anywhere.

"Jeffries does not come from a rough class of people, as many know. His father is a Presbyterian minister in Los Angeles, and when Jeffries left home to go into the fight game he left a 32 room house, at that time one of the most palatial in the west.

"Countrary to public opinion he is as gentle as a kitten and good natured. Fight is eliminated from his makeup out of the ring, and he is as good a conversationalist and companion as you could find anywhere.

"It is probable that this will be Jeff's last battle. In fact he wouldn't be in this if it wasn't that he was practically driven to it. I think he wants to wipe out the coon and then retire from the game forever."

The corps of newspaper men who are in camp as Jeffries' guests have there an office equipped with telephone, telegraph instruments and typewriters for their convenience and Jeff numbers his best friends among these men.

Detroit, 14; Philadelphia, 2

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—After having won thirteen straight games the Athletics were the easiest kind of a proposition for Detroit this afternoon in the first game of their series, the Tigers winning by the score of 14 to 2. Krause, who was such an enigma for Detroit last year, was knocked out of the box in the fourth inning, seven runs being scored. Dygert, who replaced him, was hit almost as hard. Mullin was in good form and had the local team at his mercy. Score:

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Washington bunched hits on Graham in the first and eighth innings today and won handily, 5 to 0. Except in these two innings Graham's work was fully as good as that of Johnson, whose delivery was growing less of a mystery as the game progressed Gessler's triple to right in the first inning, which scored Elberfeld from second and his duplication of the feat when his triple sent Elberfeld home again in the eighth were the features. FACULTY DEFEAT WENDELL-PHILLIP

The faculty of the high school won another baseball game last night, when they defeated the Wendell-Phillips society team by a score of 8 to 7. Two pitchers were used by both sides, and many errors were made, but the game was close and interesting all the way. The Wendell-Phillips tied the score in the ninth inning, when they made two runs, but the faculty won out in their half by scoring the one run necessary to win. The line-up:

The two infant clubs are now at the respective ends of the percentage column, Rochester being at the top and Red Wing at the bottom.

Red Wing lost a double header yesterday. Somebody had better let them win a game.

It's now up to the Superior aggregation of Central association players to take a few games from Joe Killian and his bunch.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF FARMERS

DEATH IN THE MILK PAIL

Cows Should Be Tested Before Milk or Flesh Is Used For Food.

BY W. MILTON KELLY, NEW YORK.

I believe that every animal should be tested by the tuberculin test before its milk is allowed to be used for human food in the form of milk, butter or cheese or fed to other animals that are to be used for human food.

There are some who object to the use of this test, but for the practical dairyman who desires to thoroughly eradicate the disease from his herd and secure a guaranty of healthy progeny and pure dairy products there is no safer guide to follow than this test.

There are chances of mistake, but they are so slight that for all practical purposes it is the safest test we have.

There are numerous channels of infection, such as purchasing new cows, inhalation through the breath, infection through food and water, inoculation through wounds, through heredity, through sexual congress and other channels, but the most common way of the disease spreading from one herd to another comes from infection through the mammary glands.

In using animals for dairy purposes it is essential that all those that have anything wrong with the mammary glands should be disposed of at once in some other manner than being used for dairy purposes.

Now, as to the danger of tuberculosis spreading from one herd to other herds in the dairying community, I know of no better illustration than the experiments that have been conducted in Germany, where they have a thorough test that is carried on in a practical manner.

These tests show that in that country about 6 per cent of the animals are more or less affected with mammary tuberculosis, while in this country the percentage is about 2 per cent, or two cows out of a hundred have mammary tuberculosis.

Suppose for instance that a creamery buys milk from a number of patrons who keep from one to two thousand cows. Among these cows would be from twenty to forty that are discharging bacilli in their milk every milking.

What becomes of it? It goes to the creamery and is mixed with the milk from all the healthy cows.

You bring back your portion from the sour milk tubs in your milk cans and feed it to your pigs and calves and get your herd infected with tuberculosis.

If you have been ever so cautious about buying cows that are affected and have given your own cattle the best of food and care, you stand a good chance of getting tuberculosis through the kindness of your neighbors, in getting their milk at the sour milk tub at the creamery.

You get it started in the calves, breed the calves and keep the new herd and you soon have it thoroughly established in your herd, and it is just as hard to get rid of in that form as in any other.

It is claimed by many writers that mammary tuberculosis is the only kind that can be disseminated through the milk, but experiments made by the Department of Agriculture show that cows will throw off tubercular germs into the milk when they do not have mammary tuberculosis.

The man who sends his milk to the creamery and feeds out his skim milk on his farm is taking much greater chances of introducing the disease into his herd than the man who uses a small separator and sells his cream to the creamery.

This one fact should commend the use of the hand separator to many a farmer who is raising a herd of pure-bred dairy cattle, or even a herd of common cattle that is to replace his present herd.

When the skim milk is fed to pigs the results are more easily noted, for the disease develops much more rapidly in swine than in other animals, and at the present time there are certain dairy districts in the western states where buyers will not buy hogs unless they can obtain them at a figure that will make them safe in having from 5 to 8 per cent condemned by the meat inspectors.

SKIM MILK WILL MAKE CALVES

It is claimed by the Minnesota experiment farm people that the feed cost of raising a good skim milk calf need not exceed $5.27 in contrast with $19.13 for the whole milk calf and $12.00 for one raised by dam.

A skim milk calf becomes accustomed to eating grain and roughness early in life, becomes gentle and when transferred to the feed lot is ready to make an economical gain.

The feed records of an experiment last fall show that skim milk calves have produced 100 pounds of gain for 439 pounds of grain, while whole milk calves required 470 pounds of grain per 100 pounds gain, and calves running with the dams required 475 pounds of grain per 100 pounds of gain.

Up to the weaning time the calves running with their dams looked sleeker and fatter than those raised on either skim milk or whole milk. The critical period with those that run with dams is at the weaning time.

The calves nursed by the cows lost 73 pounds the first week after weaning, while the skim milk calf gained 220 pounds and the whole milk calves 77 pounds. It took several weeks for the calves nursed by their dams to recover from weaning.

They found that it is not advisable to mix corn or any other starchy food with milk. While the starch in grain takes the place of fat in milk it's form must be changed to sugar before it is digestible.

This change is effected by the alkaline fluids and chiefly by the saliva of the mouth.

If the grain is gulped down with the milk there is no time for the saliva to act, and as the gastric juice of the stomach is acid instead of alkaline the starch is not acted upon until it reaches the intestines.

The intestines of the calf are comparatively short and complete digestion cannot take place in them.

SUMMER IN THE POULTRY YARD

A lump of alum dropped in the drinking water every ten days is said to prevent throat trouble.

Small chicks are great bug eaters. They will do a great deal of good in the garden until large enough to scratch vigorously.

Because the hens are allowed free range in the summer months is no reason why they will not become infested with lice.

Do not put away the whitewash brush in the summer time. Keep it going summer and winter.

Closely penned fowls will not do as well in the summer time as those that are allowed to seek their natural food on the range.

Do not fail to provide a shelter under which the young chicks can scurry in case of sudden storm.

Summer laid eggs can be kept for several weeks by dipping them in a water glass solution. This is a preparation which is supposed to make the shell air-tight.

If you are going to sell off the old fowls this summer pen them up in small coops and stuff them for a week or two before you take them to market. It will pay.

The hens ought to have a little grain every day all during the summer.

This is a good time to sell off the old hens.

It is so easy to neglect the fowls during the summer months that one must have a special interest in order to keep them up to the mark.

Keep the water vessels clean and always in the shade.

If you are raising ducks without a swimming place for them be sure to have the drinking pans deep enough so they can get their heads entirely under water.

NOTES ON SHEEP RAISING

Don't make the mistake of not buying feeders early and getting them well started on pasture and forage crops before it comes time to put them in the feed yards for finishing for market.

Look after the self-feeders and keep them clean and free from dirt, for they are nothing short of a patent disease spreader when not looked after by a good, trusty feeder.

The feeding out of the odds and ends of fodder before the cold and wet fall weather ruins it is important and means the saving of a snug sum every year.

Rye sowed in a cornfield will afford good winter pasture for the lambs during the fall and early winter months and again when other grasses are backward about starting in the spring.

Every sheep grower should have a hospital flock upon which he will bestow more time and to which he will add from time to time all of those that are drooping or are pushed aside from their feed by the more hardy ones.

All good feeders have good racks and feed boxes or troughs. A flock may live if fed on ground, but nothing less than keen hunger will prompt so delicate an animal to take its feed from the wet and filth of a yard.

FINE TOULOUSE GOOSE SPECIMEN

TO MAKE COTTAGE CHEESE

Use skim milk rather than whole milk to avoid loss of fat.

To secure proper flavor and speedy souring, add a small amount of good starter.

This starter should be prepared from clean, fresh milk, separated from the cream and placed in a carefully cleansed receptacle, well covered.

The milk is kept at a temperature of 70 to 75 degrees until it is well curdled, often twenty-four hours, sometimes not until forty-eight hours.

The curdled mass is broken up by hand or by a curd knife and raised gradually to 90 degrees, taking thirty to forty minutes in the process.

The whey should then separate clear in fifteen to twenty minutes, after which it is run from the curd and later placed in muslin bags or on racks to drain.

When the whey ceases to come from the curd salt is added to taste, the curd formed into balls and wrapped in oil paper that may be obtained from any dairy supply house.

For the finest quality of cheese thick cream, preferably ripened cream, should be added at the rate of about an ounce for one pound of cheese before the cheese is made into balls.

GOOD PROFIT IN THE BEAN

Easy to Grow and Harvest and Demand Is Always Active at Fair Prices.

BY W. MILTON KELLY, NEW YORK.

Try a crop of beans next year. It will pay if properly handled.

The old-fashioned saying that land is too poor to grow a good crop of white beans has been the cause of many farmers giving up bean growing. It is a mistake to imagine that any soil will grow a good crop of beans or anything else unless it is in a good state of productiveness.

From our own experience we are convinced that beans are one of the best cash or market crops that a farmer can grow, for they are a cash crop that will always bring a fair price and find ready sale in all sections of the country.

They are an easy crop on the soil, and beans, wheat and clover make one of the best and most profitable rotations that can be planned out on any farm, especially where a limited amount of manure is available.

When a field of beans has been well worked and the crop harvested the soil will be in the best possible condition for the wheat that follows in the rotation without plowing and can then be seeded to clover.

If we are to be successful with a crop of beans we need to have a fertile field that is well drained and capable of making a good crop of wheat, and we find that about eight or ten loads of good stable manure applied with a spreader will give better results for bean fertilizer than anything with which we are acquainted if the soil is lacking in fertility.

The seed bed should be prepared by plowing in the fall and disking about a month before the beans are planted. This gives all weeds a chance to germinate and subsequent harrowings will kill all of the young and tender weeds that may have started and also assist in conserving moisture.

A weeder is an excellent tool to go over the ground with to remove the crust just before the beans are coming up and makes the soil in better condition for the cultivator to do effective work. Beans should never be worked while wet.

Cultivate freely and shallow as soon after they are dry as it is possible for the ground to be stirred and continue until the pods are set.

Here in New York we find that the 1st to the 15th of June is the best time to plant beans. If planted earlier they are in danger of being attacked by the weevil or maggot, which is quite common in beans planted earlier.

The harvesting of beans is not as difficult as many of the farmers seem to think when a bean harvester is used. Some few object to the use of the bean harvester for the same reason that they object to all improved machinery, but if the conditions are right and it is properly adjusted and handled the waste is less than when harvested in the old-fashioned way.

If the machine is handled right and the weather is warm and bright the beans will be fit to haul to the barn in two days. When out on the ground the beans should be turned each day to keep them from coloring and when stored in the mow it is best to place them so that they will not pack down firmly and prevent the air from circulating through them. Some farmers have men who are placing them in the mow stand on boards so as not to allow the beans to become packed.

If they are dry and fit to draw it is all right to have them threshed, but many prefer to allow them to sweat out in the mow the same as other grain. Threshing should always be done with a bean thresher—a common threshing machine will crack so many of the beans that it will make them unfit for market.

Beans are commonly planted in rows thirty inches apart and at the rate of about one-half bushel per acre. A bean drill is used and set so that the seed will be planted about two inches deep.

Our most successful growers grow about twenty-five bushels per acre and find them a very profitable money crop.

NOTES OF THE ORCHARD

It takes nerve to thin fruit, but it pays.

Some of the finest apples and peaches in the world come from Idaho and Oregon. They are entirely free from worms. The growers are extremely vigilant in fighting insects.

Recently we saw an apple orchard that had been trimmed by a "professional." On one fine tree he had made four big gashes with his hatchet and saw when they slipped.

Crude petroleum will kill scale, but it will injure the trees if used for three or four years.

It requires more care to start a 3-year-old tree than a 2-year-old and not as much is gained.

A flock of lively chickens in an orchard will pick up thousands of insects, worms and the eggs that hatch them. Scatter grain occasionally to encourage scratching.

Alfalfa takes a tremendous amount of moisture out of the soil and is not as good for an orchard as some other less voracious plants.

Every fruit raiser ought to keep bees to do the work of cross-pollenization.

The early fruit catches the big price.

THE AUTOMOBILE IN COLLEGE WORK

This is the automobile corn special of the Indiana Farmers' Institute. H. W. Henry, president of the institute; G. I. Christie, representing Purdue university, and others traveled 250 miles through the state and inspected eighty fields of corn. The corn in this picture was raised by an 18-year-old boy and was the best field inspected.

NOTES ON "MORTGAGE LIFTERS"

Rape makes fine hog feed. They do not bloat on it as sheep do.

One of the great secrets of hog raising is to give the pigs a good start.

It is better to pay $30 for two first class sows than $100 for six scrubs.

Never keep a boar pig that is not fully up to standard.

Many young pigs are killed by lice and the owners take so little interest that they do not know what ails them.

When lice once get a strong foothold in a herd it requires the most vigorous treatment to oust them.

The hogs must all be sprayed or dipped and all bedding, loose floors and rubbish should be burned.

The hog houses should be first sprayed with some good disinfectant and rubbish should be burned.

Do not dispose of the brood sow as long as she continues to produce good, strong litters, no matter how old she is, but dispose of her with the first sign of letting down, no matter how young she is.

The earliest maturing pigs come from aged sows bred to young boars.

Charcoal and salt must be provided for the hogs as regularly as feed.

Skim milk and alfalfa with a little corn on the side will make baby pork quicker and better than anything else.

A hog raiser [illegible] has a running stream and a blue grass pasture is indeed fortunate.

Rye sown in corn ground in September makes fine pasture for late fall. If clover is sown the next spring it will make good pasture until the rye is ripe, when the hogs will thrive upon the grain.

WHAT DAIRYMEN CAN DO

Opportunity for dairying appears in the increased demand for pure milk for the large cities.

On many of the farms near cities and summer resorts there is a profitable business in supplying ice cream.

There is always the opportunity to sell first class dairy butter for fancy prices. Success in this line of the dairy business must be brought about by studying and practicing the most improved methods that are employed by the best creameries.

Dairying gives profitable employment for the whole family every month in the year.

The growing of first-class, high-grade dairy heifers to sell to the best dairymen affords an opportunity for the grower to make a good profit.

The growing of a balanced ration of food for the dairy affords the dairyman an opportunity to practice a rotation of crops that will improve and build up his fields for future crops instead of exhausting his fields.

The feeding of dairy cattle affords the dairyman an opportunity to save all of the manure made by feeding out his crops and return it to his fields for future crops.

The building of a silo enables the dairyman to save all of the valuable food elements contained in his corn crop and get the most profit out of feeding it on his own farm.

START WITH CHEAP ROADS

Gravel and Macadam Too Expensive and Farmers in West Will Oppose Them.

BY CLINTON M. SHULTZ,
Editor of American Farm World.

Good road building in the country progresses slowly. Farmers are censured because they do not favor good road legislation or vote large sums of money to build clay or macadam or gravel roads. They are called obstructionists and other hard names, but they do not seem to mind that and go on refusing to vote the money.

The trouble mainly lies in the great expense of hard roads. It costs all the way from $1,000 to $4,000 per mile to build macadam roads, the cost depending on the lay of the land and the cost of material.

City people want the hard streets of the cities and towns extended into the country. Farmers say they cannot afford to pay the high taxes necessary to build these expensive roads. They can get along without them, and they do—somehow.

In many sections this contest between the city and country has resulted in the neglect of the dirt roads and public highways are growing worse instead of better.

We believe if the movement to force hard roads upon the farmers should be diverted into a campaign of education along the lines of improving our dirt roads, of illustrating the value and comfort of roads that are good most of the time and passable all of the time, doubtless the desire for good roads would be created and the movement would receive an impetus that would carry it far forward in the next ten years.

It is necessary to move slowly in great reforms of this kind. A sudden jump from mud holes to macadam is too much for the average farmer to undertake offhand. He shows alarm when it is proposed to spend $100,000 on his road district in one year against $1,000 the previous year. He cannot see where his proportional benefit comes in. He has a suspicion that hard roads are wanted for the pleasure of the man with the automobile rather than for the man with the load of hay. He therefore bristles up and votes against the appropriation.

Dirt roads can be improved 100 per cent without the spending of more money than is now being wasted upon them under our antediluvian road laws, provided modern methods and business sense are mixed in equal parts in the work.

The organization of road clubs to work in co-operation with the state and township officials, the use of the modern road machines, of the split log drag, plank smoothing drag, tile draining and ditching will work wonders in two years on the worst dirt roads in the country.

Improvement naturally will sweep away much prejudice, create public pride and a desire for better things. With the awakening of proper sentiment the advance toward hard roads will be much easier. They will come in time under the persuasive educational system, but they will come slowly. Expensive and permanent improvements cannot be forced upon the farmers.

In the eastern states where stone and gravel are abundant and cheap the progress of the hard road movement is gratifying. But in the west, where the black soil is bottomless and where building material is scarce and high, the movement is yet hardly perceptible after years of agitation, nor will it gain much headway for years to come.

THE FOREST AND THE WOOD LOT

"It is as sure that forest land can be made to grow successive crops of trees under proper methods as that plow land can be made to grow successive crops of wheat," declares Secretary Wilson.

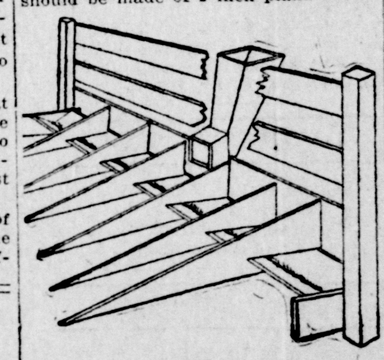

This country, which once could boast of forest resources richer than any other nation in the world, has been cutting three times as much timber for a number of years as there is grown, and the consideration of timber as a crop to be carefully harvested has come at a time when many of the virgin forests are already depleted.

The government is doing a great work in preserving our forests, but the preservation of the farm wood lot is a work that demands the attention of scientists as well.

Farmers are slowly learning how much depends upon the little patch of timber on the farm in these days of timber famine and they should be taught how to make the most of it.

TO KEEP THE PIGS IN PLACE

This style of feeding trough will be found to be very useful. The guards should be made of 2-inch planks 12 to 14 inches wide at the widest point. Two guards can be cut from each plank and in this way the proper slant will be obtained.

The construction must be very strong and everything must be well nailed, as it receives hard usage. The spout for the feed can be made of 1-inch plank and one spout will serve any number of troughs.

NUBBINS OF FARM NEWS

The new Farmers' Co-Operative union, recently organized in Kansas, refuses to admit politicians to its membership. This is a good start and if the union will now only keep politics out of its organization it may succeed.

Hawaii needs American farmers and the authorities of the island say the country is very prosperous and farmers can make money there. That may be true, but they can probably make more money at home.

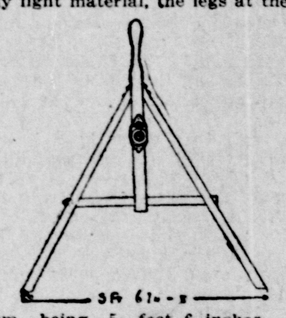

Because the railroads refused this year to make a rate of 1 cent per mile the farmers of Kansas did not get the help of the eastern college boys, who formerly flocked to the fields and helped save the crops.

The late wet spring has killed many thousands of young chicks, turkeys and ducks all over the middle west and northwest, and it is believed there will be a scarcity of poultry during the coming fall and winter.

In trying to save a brood of chickens Mrs. James Hilliard of Windsor, Ill., rushed in front of a rapidly moving passenger train and was killed.

A HANDY LAND MEASURE

In the absence of a tape line or surveyor's chain accurate measurements of land can be made with the device shown in the picture. It is made of any light material, the legs at the bottom being 5 feet 6 inches. Three lengths of these legs measure one rod and a man can, by turning the measure first on one point and then on the other, measure off land almost as rapidly as he can walk.

WORKING NOTES OF THE DAIRY

A good temper is a dairyman's strong point.

The man who starts with little money in the dairy business is likely to make the most in the end, for he must be careful long enough to acquire the habit.

Acidity in milk is incipient decomposition, and it is the most delicate flavored oils which suffer first of all among the fats of which butter is composed.

Clover is a very valuable feeding crop, because it contains so much of the element of protein, which is the element in feeding crops that costs the most.

Filthy feed troughs or buckets will cause scours in calves—certain and sure—and thousands of the youngsters die every year from this dirty business.

The Babcock test is all right, but some dairymen need something to test their ability to properly feed their calves.

A tester in the dairy is a good thing, but the basis of rich milk is the feed box.

The odors in the dairy barn can nearly all be absorbed by plenty of dry earth or land plaster.

BOY'S WORK IN WINTER

Any boy who will press one leaf of every variety he can find in the garden, from trees, grasses, weeds and other things, as well as from his vegetable crops, will have a collection ready for mounting some stormy winter day that will surprise every one who sees it.

If he noticed how the leaves are arranged he learned many points that he had never noted before.

The farm boy who has all nature to study need never lack for interesting subjects to think about, and the more he thinks the more fascinating and far-reaching the study will be.

WEAN THE FOAL SLOWLY

Mistake to Deprive the Young Colt of Mother's Company Too Suddenly.

BY W. R. GILBERT, CANADIAN EXPERIMENT STATION.

When is the exact time to wean a foal is a query that cannot be definitely answered, but one may roughly say any time from August to October. It much depends upon circumstances.

The condition of the mare and the age of the foal are the main points for consideration. If the foal was born early, say in February or March, and the mare is in foal again and due by good time, they should be separated not later than the end of August, but if the foal was born in May or June the weaning process may be deferred until the end of September or the beginning of October. I am in favor of weaning the foal gradually.

It is a common practice among farmers and horse breeders, with the idea of saving time and trouble, to bring up all the mares and foals they possess and wean the foals at once by shutting them up in loose boxes, and taking the mares away from them.

The most suitable way to wean a foal is to begin to keep him from his dam two or three hours daily, increasing the time till they are together from about 9 p. m. to about 6 a. m., then separating them some morning or some evening.

A daily feed of crushed oats, mixed with a little chopped hay and bran given to the foal a week or two before weaning will soon teach him to be independent of the mother, but care must be taken not to allow the mare to have access to the manger while the foal is eating. She would probably eat it herself.

Before the foal is weaned it is important that it should have been handled. To get a foal haltered, taught to be led about, and to be able to handle it, lift its feet up, etc., without it offering any resistance, is a work that involves a certain amount of time, but the time spent now is time saved when the foal is old enough to be broken in.

If the foal meets with an accident or falls a victim to some of the numerous ailments to which horseflesh is liable, a foal which has been handled is far easier to doctor than one which has never been touched.

After mare and foal have been finally separated the foal may be kept in a loose box out of the hearing of other horses if possible for two or three days, and it may then be turned out in the daytime and fetched up at night.

A foal's future depends a great deal on how it is treated during the first winter of its existence, therefore to do full justice it is essential that it should be liberally but not lavishly fed from weaning time till the time arrives the following spring to turn away into some luxuriant pasture for the summer.

To keep a foal on short commons with the idea of reducing the cost of the keep is, according to the old saying, cent wise and dollar foolish.

Foals invariably do best when they have company, and if two or three foals can live together so much the better. Before they are turned out in the morning they may have a feed of crushed oats, chopped hay and bran.

The same ration may be given when they are brought in again at night, with the addition of an armful of whole hay.

An occasional linseed mash may also be given, as it is beneficial in keeping the bowels open.

Two or three pieces of rock salt in the manger for them to lick is also a good thing.

After the mare has left the foal steps must be taken to suppress the secretion of milk, and with that object in view dry food and plenty of exercise may be given.

A small quantity of milk may be drawn away daily, and rubbing the udder with molasses has also been found beneficial.

A dose of physic will also hasten the process, but it should be withheld if possible, especially if the mare is in foal.

TOO MUCH COMMERCIAL FERTILIZER

It would be much better if the users of commercial fertilizers would get into the habit of adapting the fertilizer to the soil instead of seeking a fertilizer that is adapted to the crop grown.

The object in using fertilizer should be the building up of the soil rather than growing a certain crop and a fertilizer which will balance up the plant food already in the soil is an economical fertilizer to use on any crop, since the effects of its application will show on any crop that is adapted to the locality. A farmer cannot afford to buy all of the plant food that his crop will use in its growth, then why should he buy anything that his soil will furnish to the crop in sufficient quantities?

True, some crops will take more of a certain element of plant food than another will. Some crops have the power of getting more food from a soil than others have.

It is better to remedy this by adopting a judicious rotation of crops in which legumes will come in frequently.

The legumes will supply the nitrogen and help to keep up the humus supply.

It is unfortunate for the farmer that the fertilizer manufacturers have adopted the plan of recommending certain mixtures for special crops and thus to adapt the fertilizer to the crop rather than to sell the goods on their merits for the nitrogen, potash and phosphorous acid they contain and leave the farmer to select the goods best adapted to his soil and conditions.

Mrs. Jennie Conn of Gibson, Iowa, is dead as a result of injuries received by the explosion of paraffin wax which she was using to seal fruit jars.

GRAB AT BEST

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 20.—Experts of the interstate commerce commission tried today to figure out how much the railroads are going to "soak" the public by the increased rates on passengers and freight which the railroads declare necessary because of the increased wages they are paying their men and the higher cost of materials. They figure the wage increase totals from $50,000,000 to $90,000, and the freight increase proposed would reach $110,000,000.

WRECKED TRAIN BURNS.

CARLINVILLE, Ill., May 20.—A southbound express train collided with a northbound sleeping car on the Illinois Traction system at Loveless Siding this morning, and Motorman J. E. Bobbitt and Conductor C. Thompson of the express train were instantly killed. The high tension wire was broken and it set fire to the cars, burning them up.

CHARITIES CONVENE

ST. LOUIS, May 20.—Sessions of the National Conference of Charities and Corrections which opened here yesterday were resumed today with Miss Jane Addams of Chicago, presiding.

THE DAILY MARKETS

RAIN AND SUN HELP THE CROPS

Warm weather, following the present rainy spell will cause the young grain which has now sprouted two or three inches and more in many instances, in the country to grow rapidly, loosening up the earth and furnishing plenty of nourishment which is especially needed at the present time after the long period of drouth and generally dry spring experienced this year.

Seeding has been completed of the small grain and corn planting is also over in the country. The seeding was done the first of May, and oats and barley are now reported up in good shape with every prospect of bountiful crops in these grains

Warm weather now would cause the grain to grow so fast a change could easily be detected over night, according to the statement of an old farmer. The cold weather has retarded the grain somewhat to date. The corn has hardly shown itself above ground but is in good condition, although that planted early had no chance to get above ground for some time, as there was no great quantity of moisture in the ground when it was planted or since, so that it has not rotted.

Very little grain is being hauled to market at the present time, and it is reckoned that about all of last season's crop has been marketed. Prices are stationary and very little is offered.

WILL INSTITUTE ORGANIZED FIGHT

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 20.—It is confidently predicted by those who are in a position to know that the republican meeting in Milwaukee today, will result in an openly organized campaign against Senator La Follette and the Progressive members of congress from Wisconsin. It appears that the whole movement is to be organized under the name of President Taft, and it is said an effort will be made to fix the name of Taft republicans upon those who poin in it. There is to be no beating about the bush.

SPARTA, Wis., May 20.—(Special.)—Attorney Howard Teasdale of this city today announces his candidacy for the republican nomination candidate for the senate, for this district, comprising Monroe, Jackson and Juneau counties. Attorney Teasdale enters the field as a progressive candidate, against Naylor of Tomah tnd Fromader of Camp Douglas. Mr. Teasdale makes the following announcement of principles:

"I have ever supported that champion of the people's rights, HON. ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE, and shall support his return to the U. S. senate.

"I believe in the majority rule, and so favor county option and the PRIMARY LAW.

"I am in favor of greater state control of public service corporations as to rates, service, assessments and taxation.

"I am in favor of a radical change in the drainage laws, so as to fully protect the tax payer from waste of money and unjust assessments and the county from all liability.

"I am in favor of the enactment of laws to protect the laborer, farmer, merchant and mechanic, from enhanced prices due to trusts and combinations.

"I am in favor of increased aid to make our home schools more practical for every day life, and the strengthening of the common schools.

"I am in favor of a liberal immediate state aid to highways.

"I am in favor of laws that will lower taxes by requiring all property to be assessed and pay its just share of taxes, and of an income tax.

"I am in favor of a prohibition of campaign expenditures, except for printing and personal expenses, with jail penalties for the violator, and ineligibility to office for the one benefited.

"I am in favor of a more economical business management of state expenditures.

"I am in favor of all progressive measures that are in the interest of the common people, and for the betterment of their condition.

"I am opposed to ALDRICHISM, CANNONISM AND ALL OTHER ISMS that have for their object the favor of SPECIAL INTERESTS AS AGAINST THE MASSES.

COURT DECIDES FOR PROGRESSIVES

North Dakota Senatorial Candidates Must Designate Term They Run For

BISMARCK, N. D., May 20.—The supreme court handed down a decision yesterday afternoon, in which it held petitions of candidates for senator at the primary election must specity which term they are running for—the long or short.

The case was put up to the supreme court when Secretary of State Blaisdell, stalwart, accepted and filed petitions merely stating the filers were candidates for the "position of United States senator." Thomas F. Marshall of Oakes started mandamus proceedings for the purpose of requiring the secretary to refuse to file the petition of Edward Engerud, who filed as a candidate for the senatorship and did not designate which term he was after.

The decision is accepted as a victory for the progressive faction.

WOMEN CRUELLY BEATEN BY THUGS

Lynching May Follow Brutal Assault by Burglars Upon Wife and Sister of Landlord

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 20.—Mrs. George T. Harris, wife of the proprietor of the Fort Snelling Hotel, and her sister, Mrs. Mary Brose, were the victims some time last night of a vicious, murderous attack made presumably by a robber.

They were terribly beaten with some blunt instrument. Mrs. Harris has a fractured skull, but it was thought this morning that neither will die.

The women were literally beaten into insensibility. Mrs. Harris has three holes in her forehead, one of which caused a fracture of the skull. Her face and body were covered with wounds and blood. Mrs. Brose was in much the same condition.

Posses of soldiers, citizens and police are searching the woods for the assailant and if he is found, lynching may follow.
